New Company

Opens Sept. 15

At Siller Site

KINGSTON
A new company, headed by a group of local and New York City investors will purchase the Siller Beef Company property on Hurley Avenue, Sept. 10, paving the way for the initial employment of 86 persons.

Hudson Valley Quality Meats, Inc., began interviewing applicants today for positions as butchers, scalers, luggers, packers, porters and utility men.

The announcement was greeted with enthusiasm by those who see the creation of a new business in the Hudson Valley as a shot in the arm to the economy and by the many retail and restaurant customers and institutions who have missed the unique personalized service provided for 75 years by the Siller Beef Company.

Siller Beef closed its doors in mid-April after its parent company, Okura Davos International filed bankruptcy.

Investors for the new company were advised and brought together by Alan Patricof Associates Inc., of New York City, an advisor to the Ford Foundation. Robert Faris of Patricof will serve as chairman of the board of Hudson Valley Quality Meats Inc.

Other investors include August Wiedemann, who was president of Siller Beef and who will assume the presidency of the new company and Russell Maurer, former Siller comptroller who will be comptroller of the new company.

Louis M. Siller, who provided the new company with his complete support and cooperation, will be honorary chairman of the board of Hudson Valley Quality Meats Inc. Siller, who has participated in the last few weeks of negotiations with Kingston Trust Company, Empire National Bank of Newburgh and Chase Manhattan Bank of New York and other investors, will engage in limited activities with the new company due to health limitations.

It is anticipated that the first day of operation will be Sept. 15. Suppliers have been notified and the first shipment of beef, pork, veal, turkey, dairy products, frozen foods and gourmet items will arrive here Sept. 18. Shipping to a large region stretching from northern New Jersey to New York, Long Island, Southwestern Connecticut and Vermont will begin Sept. 22.

A spokesman for the new company indicated that there has been excellent cooperation and support given by the Teamsters, Amalgamated Meat Cutters and the Food Employees Union in the putting together of a contract with the new company.

Siller Beef Company had more than 700 customers and employed about 125 persons supplying kosher and non-kosher meats to such places as IBM, The Culinary Institute of America and Vassar College as well as top-flight restaurants and supermarkets.

Albany Robbery Suspect Releases Nine Hostages Ending 17 Hour Drama

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A robbery suspect who clubbed a bank guard, shot a policeman and held nine persons hostage for more than 17 hours surrendered today after barricading himself in a downtown cafeteria.

Police said the hostages were not harmed and that the suspect gave up without a struggle. He was convinced to surrender through telephone conversations with authorities.

The FBI identified the suspect as Robert M. Roscoe Jr., 34, of Washington, D.C. They said he will face charges of robbery, assault and unlawful imprisonment.

Another hostage was released Wednesday night after she complained of high blood pressure.

State and local police, along with FBI agents, had cordoned off an area just about 300 yards from the state capitol after the drama began to unfold about 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Police Chief Edward C. McArdle, looking tired from the marathon vigil, spoke briefly on the sidewalk in front of the building, saying, "The hostages all have been released unharmed. The subject is in custody and he is unharmed. It was a matter of talking to him throughout the course of the night."

McArdle said there was trouble negotiating with the man because he was "more or less undecided as to what course of action ... to take." Reportedly, the gunman, at one point, asked for a helicopter but that authorities said it would be impossible to land because of the buildings in the city's downtown area.

Police sharpshooters, wearing green flak vests, watched from rooftops with telescopic rifles. Several dozen officers tried to keep hundreds of curious spectators behind police lines.

The suspect allegedly robbed the City and County Savings Bank about 3 p.m. Wednesday, after clubbing bank guard Donald Wark, 58. The suspect scooped up cash and fled.

Fleeing from the bank, he then shot a police officer and ducked into another bank building, where he holed up in the Standard Sandwich & Coffee Shop.

Authorities identified the hostages as John Koutelis, the owner of the sandwich shop, his wife, Angie, and three of their children, Eugenia, 11, Nick, 14, and Michael, 7. There were also two waitresses and three female customers. The freed hostage, one of the women, reportedly was released because she suffered from high blood pressure.

Wark was listed in fair condition today at St. Peter's Hospital. Policeman John Fischer, 23, was hit in the upper right arm by one of two shots fired at him by the fleeing bandit.

Ellenville School Children Staying Home

By Hugh Reynolds

ELLENVILLE
Reaction collided with reality in Ellenville today as the parents of upwards of 350 school children kept them home because district voters refused to approve the fund necessary to transport them to school.

Wednesday, those same parents walked their children to school, causing massive traffic jams on Route 209 into Ellenville and drawing stern warnings from state troopers that further traffic disruptions would not be tolerated.

"The state police say you can't walk and the school district says they won't provide the transportation, so what's the alternative?" asked Thomas (Tommy) Thompson Sr. of Napanoch, a spokesman for parents in what are now referred to as "the outlying areas."

School officials say they don't really have a choice in the matter. District voters, on three occasions, rejected first, the regular $4.5 million budget and then a series of austerity propositions, one of them dealing with transportation. As a result of the 690-619 vote against spending $86,250 for "regular" busing the school district will not pick up any children in grades K-6 who live within two miles of their schools or children in grades 7-12 who live within three miles. Under normal conditions the district picks up students in K-6 within 7/10ths of a mile and within a mile for students in 7-12.

"We tried to emphasize that this is not a protest against the school," said Thompson a former (1967) member of the Ellenville School Board. "We'd like to cooperate with the school and the administration as much as possible to try to solve this."

Thompson suggested the parents were prepared to continue to walk their children to school despite the fact some of the roads are heavily traveled and none of them have sidewalks. "There's no question it's dangerous but as I said we don't really have much choice," Thompson indicated that few parents are in favor of extending the current "strike" any farther than absolutely necessary.

Some 225 parents met with school officials, state police and Assemblyman Maurice D. Hinchey (D-101st Dist.) last night at the Eastern Correctional facility grounds at Napanoch where Hinchey said he'd try to get special state transportation aid to resume normal bus routes until the next budget vote on Sept. 19.

Thompson said a number of alternatives to walking the children to school were discussed.

The state police suggested car pools but that was rejected when the possibility of liability in the event of accidents was brought out.

The idea of another walk was rejected.

The possibility of routing children to staging areas where they could be picked up by buses on their regular routes (outside the present limits) was reviewed but apparently no decision was made on it.

Superintendent of Schools James Evergetis, who was at the parents' meeting on Wednesday night, told the Freeman today that the latter suggestion "is worth looking into."

"We have some buses that are not full now," Evergetis said. "Our question is what would be wrong with picking up kids who walk to a bus stop outside the limit." Evergetis could not agree, however, on extending that logic. "A special (empty) bus (sent to some point outside the limits) would seem illegal to me," he opined.

Evergetis said absenteeism on Wednesday ran at about 10 percent with 179 out of 1,485 elementary students out and 161 out of 1,125 secondary school children absent.

Over Ruling by Corrections Commissioner

NYCLU Backs Klansman

PINE BUSH

The Grand Dragon of the New York State Ku Klux Klan (KKK) has accused Corrections Commissioner Benjamin Ward, the first black to hold that position, of embarking on a "witchhunt," after the commissioner announced Wednesday afternoon that a number of state prison employees have been directed to resign their membership in the Klan.

"He cannot simply make up a policy like that," said Earl F. Schoonmaker Jr. of Pine Bush, "it's unconstitutional. A person has the right to join any organization that he wishes without interference or harassment."

The New York State Civil Liberties Union (NYCLU) agrees. NYCLU Director Ira Glasser said Wednesday that Ward's directive was "crazy," and that the organization will offer legal assistance to any Klansman who wants to take the matter to court.

Schoonmaker himself was suspended from his job at the Eastern Correctional Facility in Napanoch last December because of alleged Klan activities. The state's Department of Correctional Services began an investigation into KKK activity at the state's prisons in early July after it was learned that Charles Holland, a guard at the Wallkill Correctional Facility, attended a cross-burning Klan rally in Chenango County this summer.

Ward's directive ordering prison employees to sever any ties they might have with the Klan is apparently a result of that probe. Further details were not provided, and state authorities would not say whether disciplinary action was being contemplated against Holland.

In a statement issued in Albany Wednesday, Ward said he had advised "a limited number of employees that they must resign membership in the Klan prior to Oct. 1, 1975, or face dismissal." A corrections department spokesman indicated that the number of state prison employees who have ties to the Klan is limited, but he would not reveal the facilities where they are employed.

Ward's directive was sent to prison superintendents and directors of parole offices throughout the state. It stated, in part:

"The department emphatically denounces the Ku Klux Klan as a racist, terrorist organization whose aims and goals are totally inconsistent with the State of New York's mandate of correctional service."

The directive continued: "In a community where more than 60 percent of the inmates are non-white, not only does the presence of the Klan disrupt a secure and humane environment, but even the possibility or hint of Klan related activity establishes a tone which can cripple the effective operation of a correction facility."

Schoonmaker, however, charged that Ward "is looking for a scapegoat to cover up the problems in the prisons that he is responsible for. He should focus instead on the real issues: that the prisons do not offer rehabilitation or education, that 85 percent of the prison population is repeat offenders."

Schoonmaker also denied that Klan presence has disrupted prison life. "The only disruptions are caused by the endless policy changes that are handed down from the administrators in Albany," he said, "the guards are hamstrung by ridiculous administrative directives like this."

The former prison teacher, who was suspended because he allegedly distributed Klan literature to inmates at Napanoch, but lost a later court battle for reinstatement, said he expects the Klan to commence legal action against the commissioner on the basis of constitutional violations.

Catskill Pizzeria Blast Badly Burns 2

By Matt Spireng
CATSKILL
 A pizzeria customer and employee were critically injured early today when an explosion apparently touched off by a gas leak, rocked this Greene County village.

Catskill fire officials said the explosion in the LaConca D'oro pizzeria at the rear of 440 Main Street shattered windows in the area and set three buildings ablaze at about 12:50 a.m.

Catskill police rushed from their headquarters, a few buildings away from the pizzeria, and found a pizzeria customer, Louis Briski of Freehold, and an employee, Marcos Martines, on the sidewalk with their clothing in flames. After police put down the flames on the men, they were rushed to Greene County Memorial Hospital and were later transferred to the Albany Medical Center Hospital burn unit, where both were listed in critical condition after being admitted.

Also injured in the blast was the owner of the Pizzeria, Giacomo Maggiore, who was treated and released at Greene County Memorial Hospital for glass cuts.

Meanwhile, when firemen reached the scene minutes after the explosion they found the rear of the building at 440 Main Street engulfed in flames. Flames were also spreading to two neighboring structures, a house and Temple Israel.

With all three Catskill fire companies at the scene, volunteers from the Palenville and Athens Fire Departments were also called in as fire fighters attempted to put down the raging fire.

Firemen were at the scene until about 6:30 a.m. The three-story building at 440 Main Street was gutted, fire officials said; fire, smoke and water damage was sustained at Temple Israel, and the neighboring house was damaged by fire.

Catskill Fire Chief Bruce Whittaker said the blaze was apparently caused by a gas leak, but explained that his department was not immediately able to pinpoint where in the building the leak occurred.

Meanwhile, in area police matters:

City detectives early today arrested a migrant worker on a charge of first degree armed robbery, following a 3:30 a.m.

robbery at the Garden of Eden on Abeel Street.

Authorities said two men entered the night spot armed with handguns, demanded money from the bartender, and made off with about $30. Police said they recovered the getaway car and arrested Cornelius Royal, 22, of Belle Glade, Fla. at the Jack Gill Migrant camp in the Town of Marbletown. Further arrests were pending at latest report.

An alleged shooting incident early Wednesday in a parking area at the Green Shutters Motel, Route 9W, Lake Katrine, resulted in the arrest later Wednesday of Robert Bence, 42, of Mt. Tremper on charges of first degree reckless endangerment, possession of a sawed off shotgun, and menacing.

State police BCI investigators said Bence and Roscoe Frantz, 31, of Orlando

Street, Kingston allegedly became embroiled in an argument in the parking lot prior to the alleged discharge of the shotgun, which police said was fired once into the ground and once in the air.

The investigation was conducted by BCI investigators Wayne Beyea and Clarence T. Searles. Bence was taken into custody by troopers after driving away from the motel.

Bence was jailed in lieu of $1,000 bail following arraignment.

In the Town of Ulster, Richard Terpening, 18, of 119 Newkirk Avenue, Kingston, was hospitalized early today after his car ran off Lucas Avenue Extension, sheered off a utility pole and slammed into a tree. Terpening, who was ticketed for driving while intoxicated, was listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Planning Membership Meeting

Marcia Childers (l), membership chairman and president Trudy Lee discuss the upcoming annual membership meeting of the League of Women Voters of Saugerties. The meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Sawyer Savings Bank Community Room, and is open to all citizens 18 years of age and over. The meeting is designed to give prospective members an opportunity to learn more about the league's activities and meet its members.

Special State Session to Tackle NYC Problems

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Legislative leaders were prepared to call their membership into order later today for a special session to deal with New York City's financial crisis. But, there was no agreement on legislation they would consider.

Gov. Hugh L. Carey, when he had called the special session on Tuesday, had forwarded leaders a proposal authored by directors of the Municipal Assistance Corp., a special agency created by the legislature in the spring to guide the city through its hard times.

However, as the governor met in his second floor Capitol office, first with legislative leaders and later with Mayor Abraham D. Beame and several city labor and government officials, a Carey spokesman made it clear to reporters that Carey himself laid no claim to the controversial plan.

The plan included a complicated arrangement to raise $2.3 billion to enable the city to meet its $100 million payroll Friday and other expenses through Dec. 10.

However, there were growing indications that state lawmakers might concentrate their attention on elements of the plan designed to oversee the city through the painful process of default.

Legislative leaders, including Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson and Assembly Speaker Stanley Steingut, emerged from an early evening pow-wow with Carey calling it "an informational session."

Later Beame and an entourage of more than a dozen persons met into the early morning in what one Carey aide termed "a question and answer session."

The keystone of the initial proposal Carey handed leaders called for creation of a five-member "emergency financial control board" of the governor, the mayor, the state nad city comptrollers and a gubernatorial appointee.

One source of concern for many lawmakers, both Republicans and Democrats, was a memo from directors of the Municipal Assistance Corp., who had submitted the outline of the plan to the governor on Tuesday.

MAC board members William M. Ellinghaus and Felix G. Rohatyn noted that a proposed $750 million commitment by the state "creates a significant level of risk" for th3 state should a plan to bring the city's fiscal affairs in order fail.

Their joint memo also noted that even though the legislative package "contains a mechanism of state control of city expenditures of the most drastic kind," there were no assurances that the city would be able to market its own securities to raise an additional $3.7 billion needed between Dec. 1 and June 30, 1976.

One GOP advisor went so far as to suggest after his initial review of the plan t hat Carey's true intent was to pave the way for the growing likelihood that the city would go to default.

The city faced problems of meeting a $100 million payroll

Friday plus additional millions in outstanding debts coming due in the next few days.

The mix of state aid advances, investments of state and city pension funds and regular city revenues the original MAC proposal envisioned to enable the city to meet its obligations came under attack from all sides.

Public employe unions, such as the Civil Service Employees Association which represents 300,000 public workers and the Police Benevolent Association representing state police, fired off telegrams and letters to legislative leaders and the governor objecting to the proposed investment of their retirement funds.

The purchase of MAC bonds with state funds was criticized by a number of legislative fiscal experts concerned about the effect such state involvement would have on the state's credit rating.

In the event of default, the plan called for all of the city's revenues and the proceeds of borrowings to go into a special account managed by the financial control board.

The board would have veto power over how city officials would spend the funds and could act as mediator between creditors, the courts and the city in a default situation.

Time to develop a rehabilitation of the city's finances would be provided by a requirement that creditors give the city 30 days notice of plans to sue for collection. The city could file a petition for a 60-day stay of court action.

Teachers Striking Around the County

By UPI

Teachers marched picket lines in 10 states today while nearly a million students took an extended holiday or sat in understaffed, half empty classrooms.

Chicago public school teachers manned picket lines for the second day, idling some 530,000 students, and strike threats loomed in New York and Los Angeles.

In all, some 943,500 students were affected by teachers' strikes.

The Chicago Teachers Union and the school board, nudged by Mayor Richard J.

Daley to settle their differences, resumed negotiations for a new contract only hours after 26,744 union teachers began picketing the city's 669 elementary and high schools. However, the talks failed to produce an agreement.

"By God, why don't we first get the children back into school?" Daley fumed to reporters. "Then we'll negotiate — and we can."

Chicago Schools Supt. Joseph Hannon ordered classrooms closed to students as teachers struck on the opening day of classes Wednesday, but the schools were open to principals and staff members. Police stood by in the schools and at Loop offices of the board to prevent violence.

In suburban Chicago, teachers at Elgin struck today but classes were kept open for the 26,000 students. A strike by high school teachers at Joliet, Ill., affected 6,500 students and a week-old strike at Urbana, Ill., affected another 7,000 students.

The strikes affected 569,500 school children in Illinois, 100,000 in Pennsylvania, 80,000 each in Rhode Island and Michigan, 41,000 in New York state, 24,000 in California, 11,000 at Marion, Ind., 8,000 in Hoboken, N.J., 14,200 in the Wilmington, Del., school system and 16,800 in Great Falls, Mont.

Only 19 percent of Wilmington's 1,200 teachers reported for work on the opening day of the fall term Wednesday. City officials asked the court to fine the Wilmington Federation of Teachers in contempt for organizing the walkout.

Marion, Ind., teachers were to meet later today to decide whether to obey a back-to-work court order.

Strikes were on at schools in 13 of Rhode Island's 39 cities, delaying the start of classes for students in Bristol, Cranston, Cumberland, Johnston, Middletown, Newport, North Providence, Pawtucket, Scituate, Smithfield, Tiverton, Warren and Woonsocket.

Five New York City Catholic high schools, with 8,000 students, were struck by 500 lay teachers demanding salary boosts. No talks were planned.

Negotiations continued on a new contract for New York City's 80,000 public school teachers, but no progress was reported and speculation grew that teachers would join the ranks of strikers when classes open Monday to the city's 1.1 million students.

About 500 Los Angeles teachers picketed a staff luncheon of the Los Angeles Unified School District Wednesday and, while optimistic for a settlement, union officials warned of growing strike sentiment and a possible walk-out after classes open Sept. 10.

In Michigan, the school situation was described as the most troublefree in a decade. Only four of the state's 530 school districts were shut down by strikes which affected fewer than 3,200 teachers and 80,000 students.

Berkeley, Calif., schools opened Wednesday with substitute teachers as elementary and secondary school teachers went on strike.

Julie Kennedy, president of the teachers association, said: "What is going on in the classrooms is essentially a babysitting operation with substitute teachers who are getting paid $50 a day. The district has brought in people who may or may not be certificated."

Hoffa's 'Foster Son' Uncooperative

DETROIT (UPI) — After seven minutes, Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien left the grand jury room, unsmiling and uncooperative.

His lawyer said the burly, 41-year old O'Brien, who calls himself a foster son of James R. Hoffa, refused to answer questions Wednesday before a federal grand jury that is trying to learn how and why the former Teamsters union boss disappeared.

Attorney James W. Burdick said the grand jury was "fishing" in Teamsters union affairs under the guise of probing the Hoffa case. O'Brien reportedly is sure he will be indicted.

O'Brien was described by federal investigators as a key figure in the case. He already has admitted he was in the same area at the same time Hoffa disappeared from outside a suburban Detroit restaurant July 30.

O'Brien called it a coincidence.

O'Brien also has admitted he was driving a car owned by the son of a reputed Mafia chieftain, Anthony Giacalone. When he left home for the last time, Hoffa told his family he was going to join Giacalone for lunch.

The car, federal investigators said later, contained traces of Hoffa's scent and hair the same color as Hoffa's.

Federal authorities refused to say what questions were asked O'Brien.

Within an hour of his appearance, Hoffa's lawyer son, James P. Hoffa, charged O'Brien with involvement in the Hoffa disappearance. He said O'Brien's refusal to take a lie detector test or answer grand jury questions made it "absolutely clear" that he was involved.

The Detroit Free Press said O'Brien told one of its reporters that he is sure the grand jury will indict him in the case even though U.S. authorities say the grand jury is seeking information, not indictments.

"I can feel it in my bones," the newspaper quoted O'Brien as saying. "In three or four weeks, those idiots (the jurors) will come down with one of their rubber stamp indictments and the man indicted will be one Chuck O'Brien."

Trenton's Water Problems Continue

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Hoses stretching from Pennsylvania provided only a trickle of water to thirsty residents today, forcing them for the fourth day to develop ways of coping with a water shortage caused by a malfunctioning valve.

The hose line, tank trucks and bottled water have supplied only about eight million gallons of water daily. The 250,000 residents of Trenton and four affected suburbs normally use about 35 million gallons.

City officials say the malfunction may not be repaired until Friday, so residents have been left to their ingenuity:

— Frozen dinners have solved many of the problems of cooking without water.

— The state Transportation Department suggested its employees plan their schedules to accommodate a shuttle bus set up to take them to lavatory facilities.

— Dozens of trucks from the Civil Defense and National Guard, bringing water from as far away Philadelphia, have been sent to curbsides around the city to provide enough water for sponge baths and toilets.

— At the state Supreme Court, 200 female secretaries threatened to leave work rather er than use portable toilets.

They were given the day off. — Lilian Britschge said her family takes sponge baths. The toilet is flushed once each morning and evening after each of the seven family members have used the bathroom. Her family also has cut out clothes laundering and use of water for cooking.

"They say you're supposed to conserve it and I figure I'll do my bit," said Mrs. Britschge.

— Berkshire Mountain Water Inc. of Connecticut helped out by sending the city 4,000 gallons of bottled water and 1,000 cases of soft drinks.

City officials said the homes most affected were in West Trenton and suburban Ewing Township, both of which sit on ground apparently too high to receive the little water left in pipelines.

"We're running out of water right now," Col. Samuel Kale of the state Civil Defense said Wednesday night.

"Right now we're hurting — we're all working our heads off right now," Kale said. "It (the water) is gone now."

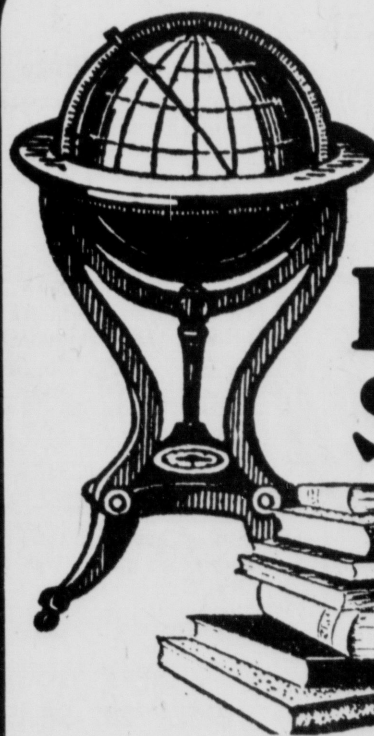

Hoses were linked across Delaware River bridges from Morrisville, Pa., and hoses have also been set up to draw water from suburbs which have their own water supplies.

Trenton Mayor Arthur Holland Wednesday extended an emergency declaration prohibiting industries from using water from the city system.

The problem began Sunday when a valve malfunction in the city's water filtration plant damaged the culvert to the city reservoir.

Board Demands Bridge Be Opened

ASHOKAN The Olive Town Board Tuesday night called for the immediate reopening of the Traver Hollow bridge on Route 28A between Boiceville and West Shokan.

New York City, which owns the bridge, began repairs this spring with one-way traffic maintained but on June 5 closed it down completely. Town residents have complained about increased problems caused by the closing and the board criticized city officials for closing it without notifying town officials, fire departments, or volunteer ambulance services, and noted that school bus contracts will reflect the extra mileage needed to go completely around the Ashokan reservoir to get from West Shokan to Boiceville.

Councilman Peter Tosi's resolution calling for reopening of the bridge will be sent to all appropriate county, city and state officials, including legislators.

A citizens' committee of West Shokan residents: Andrea Moran, Dino Giuliano, Richard Cooper, Robert Brueckner and Wallace John has been meeting with Tosi to discuss the matter. The committee researched the legal obligations of the city under the Water Supply Act of 1905, current status of construction, existing contracts, proposed test borings and maintaining traffic at the site, and will meet with the full board to discuss possible future action on the matter.

Noting reports that the Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) plans to ask the New York State Legislature to approve recreational use of the Ashokan Reservoir, the board voted to ask DEC for copies of all legislative recommendations it makes. DEC has taken over functions of the Temporary Commission to Study the Catskills, which made a study of the eight-county Catskill area.

The board voted to table action on a letter from Bernhardt Kramer, Ulster County Social Services commissioner. Kramer noted that Ulster and Oneida were the only two counties in the state still using the joint county-town administration of welfare funds and asked the board for its opinion in the matter. The board will ask Kramer to attend a special meeting to discuss it.

A flag presented to the town by historian Vera Sickler will be raised in a special ceremony at the town hall in West Shokan at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Sept. 14. The flag is a replica of the Bennington flag, first banner to be carried by land forces in the Revolutionary War.

Plan Picnic
Marbletown Democratic Club's annual family day picnic will be held Sunday, Sept. 7 from 12:30 to 5 p.m. at Marbletown Town Park. Planning the event are (L) James Hasenflue, John Terwilliger, Alfred Terwilliger and William (Chet) Myers, picnic chairman. Tickets are available from any club member.

Program Soured by Bad Sponsors

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ho most Vietnamese refugees the sponsor program looked like a way out. But to a few, it was the life of a house servant or partner in sexual pleasure. n

— Two young men left because their sponsor was a homosexual.

— A 17-year-old girl fled the house of her millionaire protectors because they made love in front of her.

— Another said he was being forced to enter a seminary to become a preacher.

Some refugees are treated like children xy responsible parishioners.

Tran Van son called his protector an "exploiter." Tns American said Son was "lazy."

Their relationship lasted two days.

Son later was sent to live in a Los Angeles hotel with other refugees waiting for relocation with another American family. But he said, "I don't want to return to any American family. I just want to get a job and be free from forced labor."

They now hate the word "sponsor." To them the good image of America is clouded with hatred.

The Government task force handling the resettlement of refugees said the breakdowns represent only a minor problem.

At Camp Pendleton, Calif., officials said there have been about 50 cases involving some 200 persons out of the 32,000 Vietnamese released from the camp in the past three months.

The breakdowns, in reality, are more widespread. Those who battled openly quit their sponsors while others, because of fears and the language barrier, chose to take what was given them.

"My wife and I were forced to work nine hours a day and six days a week for $200 a month," Son said. "There was no break during the day, even for lunch, and our 4-year-old boy was just starving. The sponsor never allowed my wife to take care of our son during the day."

"We were treated as slaves and were threatened with starvation."

This couple received a daily list of chores including fixing breakfast for the "masters" and making their beds.

Two widows and their six children were taken to Phoenix, Ariz., to live with a Protestant church. Instead they were put to live with Mexican-Americans.

"The daily schedule was from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m.," Mrs. Hoai Anh said. "during that time we were told to work and make money for the congregation. We ate only potatoes and carrots, no meat in three weeks."

"We were not allowed to talk to anybody. There were no clothes and we had to share the bedrooms with a dozen persons completely strangers to us."

She said that when Red Cross representatives investigated her complaint the sponsor showed clothes collected for the refugees which they never received.

The children must attend two hours of religious classes a day. Their parents were asked to attend the church although they said they were Buddhists.

ra024, Thurs., Page 5, Program Soured Take 2.

Tran Thi Bich, her two children and her sister live with a childless American couple in California and their relationship has been fine. But the sponsors pushed them to take welfare aids and took their first check and food stamps.

But for Nguyen Thuc Dam, his wife and four children the dream has come true.

They live in a three-bedroom house rented at $265 a month by the Lutheran Church at La Habra, Calif.

The church plans to give them $600 a month, including rent for one year, until Dam can support his family.

Gil and Mary Ann Sheets who housed Dam's family the first three weeks said they were delighted.

"We never did anything like that before. The Vietnamese taught us a lot of things like not to waste food."

Refugees at Camp Pendleton, however—aware of the breakdowns—now prefer church sponsorship. Many have rejected offers to live in American families ffor fear of incompatibility.

This situation is standing thousands in camp and there apparently is no end in sight.

Levi Weighs Restricting FBI

MONTREAL (UPI) — Atorney General Edward Levi has said he is considering guidelines which would bar FBI surveillance of domestic groups unless they threatened violence.

"The proposed guidelines would limit domestic intelligence activities to the pursuit of information about activities that may involve the use of force or violence in violation of federal law in specified qays," Levi said.

Electronic surveillance of domestic persons and organizations still could be employed with a court order, Levi added, but only for "full scale" investigations which the FBI would report directly to the attorney general.

He said buggings and wiretaps could not be used for "limited investigations," but did not define the difference between a limited and a full-scale investigation.

"The proposed guidelines accept the proposition that in limited circumstances carefully controlled FBI activity which directly intercedes to prevent violence is appropriate," Levi said in remarks prepared for a speech to the recent annual meeting of the American Bar Association. Under the proposed guidelines designed by a committee of six lawyers, the attorney general "would have to determine that there is probable cause to believe that violence is imminent and cannot be prevented by arrest before he could authorize preventive action," Levi said.

In such circumstances, the prevention "would have to be nonviolent," Levi said. He said this could involve use of informants and open and obvious surveillance to dissuade wrongdoing and restrict access

New Job for Honest Man?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jubal Hale lost his $20,308-a-year job when Congress abolished the Federal Metal and Non-Metallic Mine Safety Board of Review on June 30 — mainly because he said the board did nothing for five years.

But Hale may be back on the federal payroll after a few more weeks' vacation in his native Utah.

In an interview with UPI, Hale said he is confident the Interior Department would find a position for him, probably in its office of hearings and appeals.

"I think I will be back to work in a couple mf weeks," Hale said. He added that Interior officials have been "understanding."

Hale, 47, who served as executive secretary of the defunct board, said his new job would be for at least the same salary. "I won't take a pay cut, I'm sure of that."

The Mine Safety Board of Review was created by congress to handle appeals from noncoal mine operators when their mines were closed by the federal government for violating safety regulations.

No appeals were ever made. Hale said the board closed

'Too Few':

Abigail Adams, wife of John Adams of Massachusetts: "We have too many high-sounding words, and too few actions that correspond with them."

—By Ross Mackenzie & Jeff MacNelly © 1975, United Feature Syndicate.

Where Now?

The rejection of the Chapel Street site for a landfill by the Common Council was a good example of responsive government working for the people. When the site was first proposed many months ago, it was promoted as an ideal location, and since the current facility at Kingston Point was rapidly becoming inoperative, plans to complete the project were pushed. That was before a group of very active and very vocal area residents made their voices heard. Citing the area's natural beauty, coupled with its inaccessibility and a projected high cost of development, a drive spearheaded by the Concerned Citizens of Greater Kingston capped its efforts when it compiled a petition of more than 2,000 signatures in opposition to the move. This was certainly enough to convince a majority of the aldermen that perhaps the project was ill-conceived and should be reevaluated.

There is still the possibility that Mayor Francis Koenig will veto the council's action, since he had previously stated that the Chapel Street location was the only viable one within the city limits. However, this action by the mayor is extremely doubtful in view of the heavily-supported petition and the fact that this is an election year.

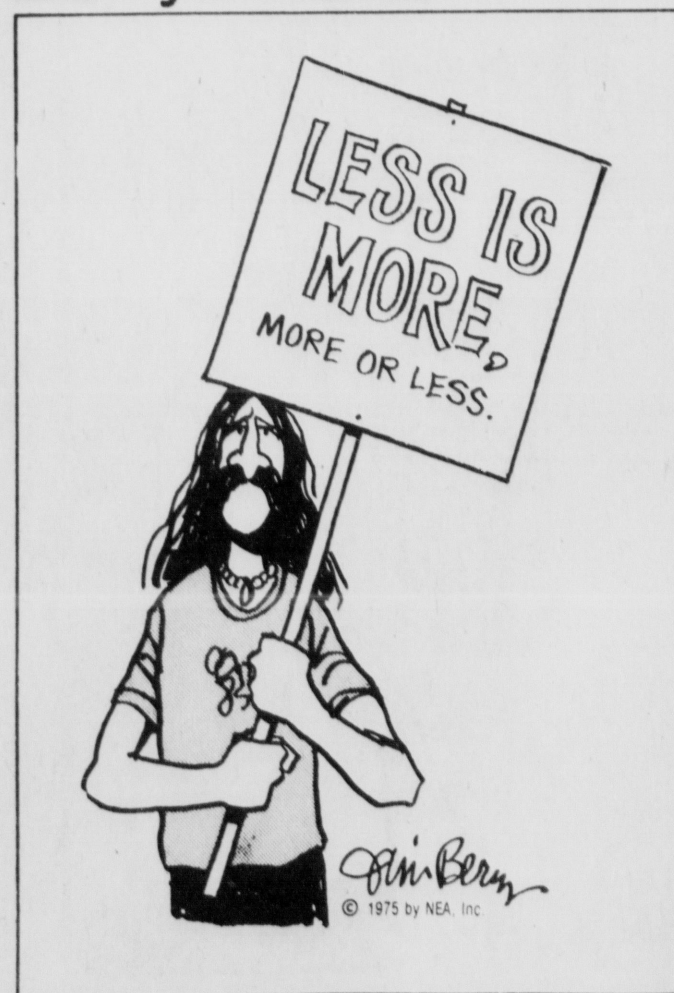

But the rejection of Chapel Street by the council doesn't mean that the problem will quietly go away. FACT: Kingston Point is rapidly becoming depleted. FACT: Kingston residents continue to generate garbage. QUESTION: Where do we go from here?

Slight Hope

With unemployment rate figures edging downward ever so slightly for the month of July, there may be some reason for optimism for Ulster County's economic future. Though the statistics showed only a two-tenths of a percent drop from the June figure of 11.6 percent, this could be interpreted as a harbinger of things to come.

Recall it was only a short time ago that dire predictions of a jobless rate of 13.5 percent were voiced for the county. Encouragingly enough the trend has, at least, been temporarily reversed. With the release of the August figures a better determination can be made to ascertain whether our area is on an economic upswing. Hopefully, that will prove the case.

Berry's World

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—Several prominent members of Congress have brought pressure on the General Services Administration to violate the law and give preferential treatment to their friends for civil service jobs.

The confidential investigative files of the Civil Service Commission contain reports on 36 Senators and 32 Congressmen who allegedly pushed GSA to find jobs for their friends.

Federal law strictly prohibits preferential treatment in civil service hiring. There is enough flexibility in the law to permit members of Congress to endorse job applicants. But the selections are supposed to be made wholly on merit, without political consideration.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressional Push for Federal Jobs

Yet the confidential files show that more than 300 people got their jobs at GSA through political favoritism. In fact, GSA created a special unit to handle the illegal patronage referrals.

Although these violations are carefully documented, it took years for the Civil Service Commission to get around to bringing charges against eight GSA officials. But no action has been taken against the members of Congress, whom the GSA political unit served.

The investigative files finger Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott as the most energetic patronage seeker with more than 60 jobs secured. An investigative report states that GSA maintained "a Senator Scott file" separate from other political referral files.

His recommendations apparently carried great weight. One friend of Scott was awarded a top job, according to the report, even though "there were 14 people ahead of him on (the Civil Service) register."

Another time, Scott wrote a "Dear Bob" letter to then GSA Administrator Robert Kunzig urging that he "favorably consider" J. Ronald Smith for a job as a buildings manager in Pittsburgh.

Back came a "Dear Hugh" letter from Kunzig. "You may be assured," he wrote, "that we will do everything possible to expedite processing his appointment."

About the same time, Scott, also pushed Harold Kitchen for a federal protection officer's job in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Neither Smith nor Kitchen, as it happened, could pass the qualifications. But GSA produced a typical bureaucratic solution; both men simply were offered better jobs.

It is all explained in a June 23, 1971, memo which speaks of Smith and Kitchen as "the two must referrals from Senator Scott's office."

Confides the memo: "We were not able to qualify Mr. Smith for this position. We therefore established another position." Thus, he was given a tailor-made job, in blatant violation of the law, at a recommended salary of $16,404.

In the case of Kitchen, the helpful folks at GSA "qualified him and are ready to offer him a GS-9 assistant buildings manager position... (which) pays $10,470 per annum as compared to the $6,938 that the federal protection job would have paid."

Former Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., now running for the Senate in New Hampshire, was also active in seeking GSA jobs for his political pals. A special job was illegally "created" for one of his friends, John O'Malley, and GSA assigned "top priority" to the job application of Frank Schiappa, the father of Wyman's administrative assistant.

Ill health finally prevented the elder Schiappa from obtaining gainful employment at GSA, but four other Wyman referrals received preferential treatment.

Applicant after applicant, with the right political connections, got priority over those who had no pull. A job seeker recommended by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., for example, landed a cushy, $25,000-a-year post "over a stronger candidate," according to the files.

GSA also "went to great lengths" to arrange an $18,000-a-year job for Barney Sanders, who had the backing of House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., and former Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla.

Before Gerald Ford moved from Capitol Hill to the White House, he teamed up with ex-Rep. Les Arends, R-Ill., to seek a GSA job for Joseph Lawless.

And at the insistence of Sen. James Pearson, R-Kans., the "Republican credentials" of a career employee were checked before his promotion was approved.

The Republicans' favorite wire puller at GSA, Jack LeMay, wrote in one confidential memo: "In each case where I have referred a candidate, I think he ought to have the job." But he added mysteriously: "I do think the less we put in writing on these matters, the better."

Footnote: We sought comments from all members of Congress named in our story. Most had not returned from their vacations, but aides insisted the job referrals were neither improper nor illegal. In every case, the aides described the letters as "routine."

A spokesman for Speaker Carl Albert, for example, emphasized: "We've always been extremely careful." And Sen. Hugh Scott's office stressed that if there had been any impropriety, it had been done by GSA without his knowledge.

A spokesman for President Ford said all his congressional recommendations had been examined during his confirmation hearings, and no hint of impropriety had been found.

And a spokesman for GSA, although acknowledging the agency had established an office to "follow up on high level referrals," insisted: "We have maintained all along that it was not against regulations."

Irish eyes are crying

By William F. Buckley

Oh sure, Nelson Rockefeller's principal purpose on his trip to the south, where he discovered that his affection for George Wallace was like that toward a fraternity brother, was politics. So what else is new? Edward Kennedy began the pilgrimage to the shrine at Montgomery years ago, and it was hardly to be expected that politicians to the right of Senator Kennedy—which means, mercifully, about 95 percent of all elected officials—should cavil at the hypocrisy of Nelson Rockefeller, whose candor on a number of matters is not to be deplored, or condescended to, but welcomed.

It is difficult to understand why the critics automatically assume that a politician who, like Nelson Rockefeller, made his reputation substantially by his identification with the excesses of the welfare state, should not now retreat from his former position. After all, Richard Nixon was the anti-Communist Fire-eater. He saw, or thought he saw, that conditions had substantially changed, and accordingly initiated moves toward a detente with the same mainland Chinese whose sequestration had been an article of faith for him for decades.

How can one tell that a politician is being hypocritical? Well, of course, one can't tell, not absolutely; and it is generally safe to assume that a change in direction is an indication of political opportunism. But political opportunism, in a self-governing society, is not all bad. If a politician changes his position from an advocate of forced busing to an opponent of forced busing on the simple grounds that the overwhelming number of his constituents black and white are opposed to forced busing, that isn't necessarily delinquent statesmanship. It is only when the tergiversation involves a genuinely seditious assault on what is clearly right and what is clearly wrong that you have moral surrender. Pontius Pilate's bending to the will of the crowd is the legendary example.

Nobody ever said Rockefeller was dumb, or that he is insensitive to critical developments. So why should he not be sensitive to the abuses of state welfare? The very week that he went to Montgomery, Alabama, to declare his solidarity with George Wallace in criticizing indiscriminate federal welfare spending, Time Magazine opened its obstinately liberal minded Domestic Affairs section with an attack on welfare that might have appeared in the pages of National Review. "If there is one thing that politicians and the public agree on"—Time editors began—"it is that the U.S. has the world's worst welfare mess."

In fact, it has a monster: a system that costs some 45 billion dollars a year at all levels of government, delivers benefits to 25 million people and requires a quarter of a million government employees to administer it."

The American people believe in helping those who badly need help, but "practically everyone feels that welfare has become a hydra—sustaining many who do not deserve help, breeding incredible bureaucracy and inefficiency." With Time's nice eye for color, it quotes New York's State Commissioner for Social Services who recently suggested that the state might be better off to "strip every third person (in the welfare bureaucracy) of his or her typewriter and telephone, encourage them to play bridge or do anything that comes into their heads—except to send out more instructions, forms and guidelines."

It transpires that President Ford has selected Nelson Rockefeller to preside over regional inquiries into welfare reform. It would be easier to make a lot of sarcastic cracks on the order of sending out the fox to guard the chickens. But they should be resisted. My own guess is that Nelson Rockefeller's views on welfare are sharply different from what they were ten years ago. After all, the alternative is to conclude that Nelson Rockefeller is blind. Blind to facts and developments obvious to more precocious critics of social welfare ten years ago. But why should we, to express a ten-year old resentment, be hostile to Nelson Rockefeller's conversion? Such an attitude towards converts would have immobilized St. Paul. I myself have no greater objection to Nelson Rockefeller's leading us back from state welfareism, than I would to Henry Kissinger leading us back from detente.

When Mr. Rockefeller is through examining the system and its deficiencies, we shall see what recommendations he makes. And evaluate the profundity of his conversion.

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak appearance as a sworn witness before the subcommittee on June 24, 1974, led to an unpleasant scene. When asked by Kissinger in May whether to risk a repetition, one of the Secretary's shrewd advisers told Kissinger his relationship with Jackson had so deteriorated that he should duck out.

Instead, Kissinger's operatives have tried to give Congress his views on SALT without confronting Jackson. One possibility is testimony before the friendly arms control subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri (where Kissinger would not testify under oath). Besides that, Kissinger is also considering sending Congress a State Department white paper on SALT.

To avoid preemption by the Symington subcommittee or a white paper, Jackson wrote his Aug. 22 letter, bearing the formal salutation of "Dear Mr. Secretary" (the old first-name days of "Scoop" and "Henry" being long gone).

Jackson's letter leaves no doubt what he wants: "as the only member of the administration present at the negotiations of the SALT I agreement... you alone are in a position to tell the subcommittee... why the administration has chosen to ignore its pledge to regard the deployment of the new Soviet SS-19 missile as a heavy missile and therefore one whose deployment contravenes the U.S. interpretation of the agreement."

That has the tone of a challenge, not an invitation. How Kissinger reacts to it could cast a long shadow over future political and diplomatic events.

Inside Report

No Longer Scoop & Henry

WASHINGTON—When Secretary of State Henry Kissinger returns from his Mideast triumph, he will find on his desk an extraordinarily harsh letter demanding his presence at a long-delayed confrontation with Sen. Henry M. Jackson over SALT.

Since March, Jackson has sought Kissinger to testify on strategic arms limitations talks (SALT) before the arms control subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee. On Aug. 22, with Kissinger shuttling between Jerusalem and Cairo, subcommittee chairman Jackson wrote him (but did not publicly release) a letter that reads like a subpoena. In language seldom used by a senior Senator to a Secretary of State, the letter concludes: "Your persistent failure to appear before the committee in the face of Soviet (missile) deployments inconsistent with your assurances to the Congress (about the SALT I agreement) raises serious doubts about the manner in which that agreement was negotiated."

Accordingly, I must again request that you provide the subcommittee with a list of dates on which you are prepared to appear and respond to these and other questions."

That leaves Dr. Kissinger with two unattractive options:

Option No. 1: Stonewall, ignoring Jackson's letter. But that could extend Kissinger's vendetta with Jackson to the chairman of the parent Armed Services Committee, the immensely prestigious Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, who might rise in defense of Senate prerogatives.

Option No. 2: Capitulate, joining in a confrontation with all advantages held by Jackson, who as subcommittee chairman will control questioning. Although the hearing would be behind closed doors, Jackson would push for quick publication of a transcript.

Either option guarantees escalation in the political debate over detente. While Kissinger is intent on a SALT II agreement, President Ford is finding detente a diminishing political asset. Jackson, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, will insure that SALT and detente are political debating points.

Jackson never liked the 1972 SALT I agreement negotiated by President Nixon and Kissinger and early this year charged that Soviet deployment of the huge SS-19 missile violates Kissinger's assurances in seeking congressional ratification of SALT I that the Soviets would not replace old missiles with larger ones.

The Jackson subcommittee heard closed door testimony about this from CIA director William Colby on Feb. 11 and Defense Secretary James Schlesinger on March 3. While refusing to charge violations of understandings, each confirmed Jackson's SS-19 facts.

Jackson next sought Kissinger's appearance. Subcommittee aides repeatedly ("at least a dozen times," claims one Jackson man) asked the State Department to schedule Kissinger. A tentative date of May 15 was once set but was cancelled because of the visit here by the Shah of Iran.

In truth, Kissinger feels Jackson's insistence that he testify under oath is a gratuitous indignity. His

Buckley Errs

Editor: The Freeman

As a June 1975 graduate of Princeton University, I read with some surprise and dismay William F. Buckley's description (August 21) of what four years of Princeton must have done to me. After checking the facts concerning the Gallup poll Buckley found so interesting, I found that when it comes to Princeton, Bill Buckley becomes the truest-blue Eli of them all — sparing neither distortion nor innuendo to discredit the Tiger.

Buckley's column implies that the Gallup Organization did a statistically sound longitudinal survey at each of the nation's colleges to determine the liberalizing influence of each. Supposedly, Gallup then ranked all of the nation's colleges on this basis with Princeton heading the list as most liberal and Oklahoma Christian bringing up the rear as most conservative.

In fact, the Gallup Organization conducted a series of three polls, none of which support Buckley's contentions. The first poll, commissioned by the strongly fundamentalist Oklahoma Christian College, entailed interviews of 904 students at a representative sample of 57 colleges and universities conducted between January 28 and February 18, 1975. Responses to this poll were differentiated by class but not by school. At the request of Oklahoma Christian, a sample of 100 of its own students were also interviewed for comparison. At its own initiative, the Gallup Organization conducted a survey of 100 Princeton students as well. The data from neither of the latter two surveys was differentiated by the class of respondents. The survey of Princeton students was conducted primarily because the Princeton campus is only about one block from Gallup Organization offices.

It should be clear that none of Buckley's conclusions can be drawn from the Gallup polls as they were conducted. First, none of the polls were longitudinal. That is, in none of the polls did Gallup determine the attitudes of a freshman class at one point in time and compare them to the attitudes of the same class four years later. Rather, views of the Class of 1975 were compared to those of the Class of 1978. The implicit assumption of such a comparison is that the attitudes of this year's senior class at its matriculation in 1971 were equivalent to the attitudes of the class which matriculated in 1974. This assumption hardly seems reasonable. The freshman year of the Class of 1975 was still part of the turbulent period of the late 60's and early 70's — a period which is ancient history to many of this year's freshmen. (Buckley's statements are based on the notion that Princeton's seniors are much more liberal than are her freshmen — incidentally a notion which can't be substantiated by the Gallup polls. Note that this notion could lead to the conclusion that in the last four years Princeton has gotten conservative more quickly than has any other school just as easily as it can lead to Buckley's conclusions.)

Second, responses to the surveys at Oklahoma Christian College and Princeton University were not differentiated by class. Therefore, there is no basis for comparing the views of seniors at these institutions in 1975 to those of freshmen there at the same time.

National Sample Princeton

For one world government.....	22%	19%
"Highly favorable" to Ted Kennedy.....	20%	10%
"Favorable" to S.D.S.....	4%	1%
"Highly favorable" to Democratic Party.....	13%	4%
"Unfavorable" to Stalin.....	17%	40%

From my own observations at Princeton I would grant that my class as a group is more liberal than is the freshman class, but this reflects the fact that my class retains the last vestiges of the turbulent years of the late 60's and early 70's. If anything, four years at Princeton have tempered the views of many of my more radical classmates.

Editor: The Freeman,

The residents of Kingston can be assured that one city agency is functioning at near perfection. The Water Department, operating without political pressures, has supplied city dwellers with pure, delicious water at minimum charge. What more can Kingstonians expect from any city agency?

The proposed revision in the city charter pertaining to the water department is unnecessary, and may lead to political involvement in an agency that has no business in politics.

Next time you turn on your faucet, think about it, and Third, since the national poll did not differentiate responses by the school at which they were made, not even the 57 schools where polls were conducted could be ranked on a spectrum from most to least liberal as Buckley implies.

Buckley's column deserves some additional comments. First, the statistics Buckley cites to support his comparison of Princeton to Lenin Institute are from the national sample and not from the Princeton sample — a clever bit of deception. Second, perhaps Ralph Nader is thought of so highly at Princeton because he happens to belong to the Princeton Class of 1955. I wonder if Bill Buckley would fare so well at his own Yale. Third, a question. Does it really follow that because a person opposes capital punishment he is a liberal and therefore a likely candidate for the position of "executioner"? Finally, Buckley seems to have avoided statistics which would at least shed some doubt on some of his contentions. Consider:

Four years at Princeton haven't made me a liberal, but if Bill Buckley continues to use such indiscretion in future columns, I certainly will hesitate to identify myself with anything that smacks of his brand of conservatism.

Editor: The Freeman

Recent news releases of the spectacular Mt. Marion train derailment fire described the dangers, destruction and statistics, but they somehow failed to touch on the vast amount of human effort that was involved. Therefore, we of the Mt. Marion Fire Department would like to express our thanks to each of our several hundred brother and sister volunteer fire fighters who worked with us during those 30 hours. From 18 fire districts throughout the county they came to our aid with equipment, and abundant, willing and professional-like people to man it.

Likewise deserving of a great deal of thanks are those scores of people who in one way or another supported our efforts. Police and ambulance services were constantly at our side.

Credit Due

When our fuel tanks began running low the Ulster County Dept. of Highways provided a manned gasoline tanker for on the spot fill ups. The Mount Marion store opened its doors to our Auxiliary in the wee hours of the morning. Donations of food and beverages came in from local people, as well as virtually every "Fast Food" chain store in this area. There were also many voluntary contributions of time and money in the preparation and distribution of food and coffee to the weary firemen. Most notable among these was the tireless work done by the members of the several Ladies Auxiliaries on the scene.

To these and to all who helped out in any way we extend our sincere thanks.

Business News Today

Elect Hercules Officers

WILMINGTON, DEL. Hercules Inc. board of directors has announced the election of four corporate officers. Effective Dec. 1, Stephen R. Clarke becomes vice president finance, replacing Myron W. Krueger, who is retiring.

Arden B. Engebretsen has been elected corporate treasurer, replacing Clarke, and John R. Vaile will become an assistant treasurer.

The board also announced the election of John F. Bullard as corporate comptroller, effective Nov. 1, upon the retirement of Clarence A. Chaplin.

Clarke, corporate treasurer since 1969, and a director and member of the Finance Committee since 1971, joined Hercules in 1960 as assistant comptroller when the company acquired Imperial Color Chemical & Paper Corp. At the time of the acquisition, Clarke was treasurer of Imperial. In addition to his Hercules Board membership, Clarke is a member of the board of managers and the executive committee of the Wilmington Savings Fund Society.

Engebretsen, elected an assistant treasurer in 1974, joined Hercules in 1959 as an administrative assistant to the plant manager at the company's facility at Bacchus, near Salt Lake City, Utah. In 1968 he was transferred to the Legal Department at corporate headquarters in Wilmington, and in 1971 was named a senior counsel. A graduate of the University of Utah's law school, Engebretsen is a member of the American Delaware, and Utah bar associations.

Twin Lakes Dancing

HURLEY Twin Lakes Mountain House in Hurley will be offering something different beginning Sept. 19 — Friday night ballroom dancing classes under the direction of Fred Douglas deMayo, director of dance at West Point.

Classes will consist of Ballroom I, for those with little experience, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Ballroom II and III, for experienced and advanced dancers, from 8:45 to 10 p.m. The fee for the classes will be $20 for individuals and $35 for couples. Checks should be sent to Twin Lakes no later than Sept. 12 to insure inclusion in the classes.

The courses will last for eight weeks, beginning Sept. 19. The building will be closed to the general public on Friday evenings when classes are given.

Collection Agency

BEACON A new business has come to the Hudson Valley Area. The DUSO Creditors Bureau, Inc. has recently opened in Beacon. The company is a professional collection agency serving the entire State of New York.

Walter E. Beverly, the president, is a former policeman from Poughkeepsie and served as chief of police in a small town in Colorado. He has been involved in the collection industry for four years and has been associated in management with two of the largest agencies in the United States.

Bullard, an assistant treasurer of Hercules since 1969, also joined Hercules in 1960 when the company acquired Imperial Color Chemical & Paper, where he was assistant treasurer. Since that time, he has held a number of managerial positions, including financial manager at the Bacchus Works, manager of General Accounting at the corporate offices, and secretary-treasurer of Hyston Fibers Incorporated, a former joint venture of Hercules and Hoechst

AG of West Germany.

Vaile, since 1970 manager of the Credit Division of the Treasurer's Department, joined Hercules in 1956 following graduation from George Washington University with a B.A. in business administration. Since that time, he has held a number of managerial positions, including assistant manager of General Accounting, manager of Foreign Accounting, and control manager in the Synthetics Department.

Temple Emanuel

Rosh Hashanah evening services will be held at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, Friday 7:45 p.m. Services will be conducted by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, Cantor John Park and the Temple organist and choir. All interested persons may attend. Temple affiliation is not required. In lieu of tickets all visitors may make a voluntary free-will contribution.

Rosh Hashana morning Shofar services will be held Saturday 10 a.m. Children's services for the holy day will be held 2:30 p.m. There will be baby sitting services provided for the morning and children's services.

Temple Religious School classes begin Saturday, Sept. 13. Grades seven, eight and nine will meet 9 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. Grades kindergarten through six will meet from 11:20 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Families interested in registering their children in the school may contact Rabbi Eichhorn.

The Temple membership committee reports that the following families joined the congregation within the past week: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kenik, Mr. and Mrs. David Gurwitz and Mrs. Tess Buchler.

Families desiring to affiliate may contact George Plotsky, Morton Lurie or Rabbi Eichhorn.

Ahavath Israel

Sundown Friday marks the beginning of the High Holy Days, the Season of Repentance which reaches its climax 10 days later. The holidays begins with Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, which will be observed Friday evening Saturday and Sunday. The dominant prayer theme is "Lord by our deeds may we become worthy of thy grace and thus be inscribed in the Book of Life."

The schedule of services at the conservative synagogue, Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, will be Friday and Saturday 7 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday preliminary service 8:30 a.m., Shacharis 9 a.m., Scriptural Reading 10 a.m., Sounding of the Shofar, Sunday only 10:30 a.m. Rabbi's sermon 10:45 a.m. Musof 11:15 a.m.

Rabbi Aryeh Lev Lupkin will officiate at all services.

At all services the mourner's prayer will be observed for the following departed whose Yahrzeits will be observed during the coming week: Libby Gerson, Morris Pepper, Anna Gruberg, Rose Nussbaum and Rose Kinberg.

The junior congregation will conduct services both days 10:45 a.m. in the chapel.

Talmud Torah classes will resume, Monday, Sept. 8 at 3:45 p.m.

Agudas Achim

Candles will be lighted Friday no later than 7:02 p.m. for Rosh Hashanah eve at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue.

Services will be 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday 8:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday services will be 8:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday is the Fast of Gedalya.

All services are conducted by Cantor Herman Slomovitz. The Congregation wishes all a Blessed New Year.

Services during the week are at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

'Wishes for a Good Year'

Many are surprised to learn that Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, actually takes place in the seventh and not the first month of the Jewish Year.

The holiday also confuses people because some Jews celebrate Rosh Hashanah for two days, while others celebrate only one. This year Rosh Hashanah begins with sundown on Friday, September 5.

Rosh Hashanah is the first of the 10 days of Penitence which culminate with Yom Kippur, the day of Atonement. Jewish tradition holds that God created the world on this day. Yet there is no mention in the Bible that it should serve as the New Year's Day.

The Bible does say, however, that "In the seventh month, in the first day of the month shall ye have a sabbath, a memorial blowing of trumpets, an holy convocation."

And this is the day that is celebrated as Rosh Hashanah, literally "the head of the year."

But the actual first day of the first month on the Jewish calendar falls nearer to the spring. This calendar counts from the first day of the Jews' exodus from Egypt as designated by Moses.

The next question is why some celebrate the holiday for one day, and others for two.

This dichotomy also has its roots in antiquity, for in Biblical times Rosh Hashanah was celebrated for only a day. But when the Romans crushed the ancient Jewish state and sent its inhabitants to the four corners of the earth, one of the sages added a second day to the holiday.

Since wide time differences existed in various parts of the world, concern was felt that all Jews should be able to observe at least most of the holiday at the same time. Today the Jews in Israel, as well as members of the Reform movement, have returned to the Biblical custom of celebrating for a single day.

There is no champagne or confetti in the Rosh Hashanah celebration as in celebration of the Gregorian New Year. Indeed, this holiday is considered the annual Judgment Day. Temple and synagogue services are solemn.

After an elaborate prayer service, the ram's horn, or shofar, is sounded for all to hear. Its piercing call summons the worshippers to look within and search their consciences.

The traditional holiday greeting is "May you be written down in the book of life for a good year."

At a time when the United States and the rest of the world are beset by economic, as well as other, problems of all sorts, it can be hoped that people everywhere will be "written down for a good year."

Register for Temple School

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn registers new students Brian DuBois (L), Scott Hirsch and Todd Kushnir in Temple Emanuel Religious School. Classes will begin at the Temple, 243 Albany Avenue Saturday morning, Sept. 13. The school has classes for Jewish youngsters in grades kindergarten to 10th. Enrollment information may be obtained by contacting Rabbi Eichhorn or George Plotsky, Temple membership committee chairman. (Freeman photo)

Thruway Food Service Bids Opening Postponed

ALBANY The New York State Thruway Authority has postponed the opening of bids for operation of the 27 food service facilities on the system. Bids, originally scheduled to be opened Sept. 8, will be opened instead at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 16.

Chairman Gerald Cummins said the delay occurred because the authority modified the bid form to clarify its original intention of permitting a single bid for operations of all food service facilities.

Thus, bidders may submit a bid on either a single group of restaurants or on two or three groups.

Group A comprises six restaurants between New York City and Albany, two on the Berkshire section, the charter bus stop at the Newburgh interchange and the employee cafeteria at Thruway headquarters. The present operator is Marriott Hot Shoppes.

Group B comprises nine restaurants between Syracuse and Buffalo. Gladieux Food Services has the present contract.

Present leases expire Dec. 31. The restaurant at the Angola service area near Buffalo is not involved in this bidding, since its contract has another year to run.

Bidders must be experienced in the operation of large food service facilities, with bids accepted only from bona fide food service organizations which have been in existence since Jan. 1, 1970, and which have had gross food sales of at least $1 million a year from 1970 through 1974.

Forced Apart

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A couple who pleaded guilty to allowing their infant daughter to starve to death was ordered by a judge not to see each other for five years.

Six-week-old Denise Martin was found dead March 2 of malnutrition and dehydration. Her parents, Robert Lee Martin, 40, and Florence Dickson, 24, pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal negligence.

Superior Court Judge Albert Mathews sentenced the mother to a year in jail, including the 185 days she has already spent behind bars. Martin was sentenced to the time he has already served.

The judge put them on five years probation, on the condition they do not see or communicate with each other during that time.

Expecting Liberty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The First Family learned Wednesday it'll soon be hearing the patter of little feet. Lots of them.

What everybody had suspected was confirmed. Liberty, the family's Golden Retriever, is expecting a litter between Sept. 14 and 16. A room in the White House family quarters is being prepared for the arrivals.

Liberty was mated in July with Misty Sun Gold Ladd, a champion Golden Retriever in Medford, Ore., that has sired 400 puppies.

President Ford has already promised Liberty's offspring to friends and staffers, the White House said.

Platform Planners

Louis Klein is a member of the Platform Committee of the Democratic Party which Tuesday announced a five-point platform for Ulster County Legislative candidates. Other members of the committee previously listed are James Barton, Janet Yallum, Belle Sundeen and County Democratic Chairman Harold Brown.

Professor Says Plant Impact More Severe Than ASDA Has Said

NEW PALTZ
A professor at the State University College at New Paltz has concluded that the use of atomic reactors to generate electricity at a site in the Town of Lloyd could have significantly more severe impacts on atmospheric and meteorological conditions than determined earlier by the Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA).

Dr. Stephen Egemeier, an associate professor of geology at New Paltz, based his conclusions on two separate studies prepared recently for ASDA. In each case, Dr. Egemeier expands on data used in the preparation of those reports for ASDA and reaches more detailed conclusions concerning cooling tower plumes, artificially created ground fog and weather modifications.

The first of two reviews conducted by Dr. Egemeier deals with an ASDA report concerning induced fog and climatic changes that could be attributed to a natural draft cooling tower situated on a 2,300-acre ASDA-owned site in the Town of Lloyd. That report concluded that a cooling tower would have "miniscule" impacts on the climate of the Mid-Hudson region, and would contribute only minimally to increased fog and water vapor in the area of the proposed nuclear plant.

In his review, however, Dr. Egemeier maintains that the mathematical model used by the ASDA-commissioned study team does not accurately predict the length of water vapor plumes or the amount of time that they would be present.

"It seems that the model is not entirely adequate, but is used only because better models are not yet generally available," states Dr. Egemeier in his report. "The ASDA report fails then, not in the choice of model, but because it does not clearly state the large errors inherent in the model. One gets the impression from the ASDA report that the conclusions are accurate facts when in fact they are only suppositions at best."

Specifically, Dr. Egemeier notes that the three existing nuclear plants used for comparison purposes with the proposed Lloyd site (in Pennsylvania, Tennessee and England) are all located in warmer climates than the Lloyd site and are presumably smaller than any plant which would be located in Ulster County. And, Egemeier notes that the Lloyd site is considered adequate for four nuclear generating plants, although the ASDA report considered the climatic impact of just one atomic facility.

In addition, Dr. Egemeier notes that photographs of an Ohio cooling tower show a downwind "snow shadow" 30 miles long and 10 miles wide. ASDA, he adds, indicates that plume length will be less than two miles 80 percent of the time, but offers no data to indicate how long plumes will be—and the extent of accompanying cloud cover and precipitation—during the remaining 20 percent of the time.

It's the worst cases that have the greatest environmental impact," he states, "therefore, the omission of these cases is serious."

Dr. Egemeier offers several alternatives to the natural draft cooling towers presumed by ASDA to be most appropriate for the Lloyd site. He suggests that dry cooling towers, which do not emit water vapor plumes, should be considered, as well as a system which uses, rather than rejects, the heat created by an atomic plant. He notes that several European countries use the heat from power plants to provide warmth for nearby cities.

In his second review, dealing with ASDA's "Meteorological and Air Quality Program at Lloyd," Dr. Egemeier arrives at many of the same conclusions that were incorporated in his first review. Specifically, he notes:

- Water vapor plumes exceeding 14 miles in length will be present approximately four days per year; plumes exceeding seven miles in length will be present approximately 18 days each year.

- Alternatives to wet cooling towers have not been considered.
- Large natural draft cooling towers will be visible over nearly half the area within five miles of the Lloyd site; smaller natural draft towers would be visible in more than one-third of the area; mechanical draft cooling towers would be visible in less than one-tenth of the area.

Egemeier has received degrees in geology from Union College, University of Rochester and Stanford University. He was employed as a geologist for the U. S. Geological Survey, Water Resources Division, in 1966-67 and has taught at New Paltz since 1972.

It Sure Beats Vandalism

At least that's the way it's supposed to work, according to the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, sponsors of the national Youth Program Using Minibikes (NYPUM) that gave intensive instruction to 25 youngsters this summer in the art of staying aloft on the two-wheeled vehicle. With funds from IBM's Community Service Fund and the U. S. Department of Justice, plus minibikes donated by Honda Motor Corporation, Princeton University track star John Cabell (L), directed the program held behind Eagle Trucking and Jay Steel on Sawkill Road. Legislature Deals with Bridges

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON
The Ulster County Legislature bridged a few problems Wednesday night when it agreed unanimously to appropriate $6,000 for joint improvement of treacherous Silver Hollow Bridge in Shandaken, and took steps to authorize final plans for the replacement of Phoenicia Bridge for $325,000 which is $125,000 under estimated cost.

But plans to name Richard Bray as deputy superintendent of highways had to be delayed until next week because the Finance Committee has yet to come to agreement over the salary for the temporary post. Gray is a general foreman for the department.

At the special meeting called by legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8), the board agreed to share the cost of repairing the Silver Hollow Bridge by appropriating the $6,000 to be spent by the Ulster County Highway Department for labor and technical assistance, provided Shandaken purchases the supplies and required materials.

The legislature also stipulated that any money recovered by the town from insurance carriers be shared equally with the county, up to the amount expended by the county.

Silver Hollow Bridge was damaged earlier this year by vehicles in two separate accidents. The Shandaken Fire Department subsequently refused to allow its fire trucks to use the span. Eighty home owners in Chichester consequently have been without fire protection.

One of the measures sponsors, William R. West (R-Dist. 4), told the board he appreciated the legislature's help in "an emergency situation" especially in view of the fact that "the folks on Silver Hollow Road were suffering an unusual hardship." George Kirk (R-Dist. 4) co-sponsored the resolution.

Authorization for the rebuilding of the Phoenicia Bridge, which dropped into the Esopus Creek last February is expected to come at the Sept. 11 meeting of the legislature.

The naming of a deputy superintendent of highways to head the department until a replacement can be found for former superintendent Jose Camallonga Jr., who resigned in mid-August, was postponed a week because the Finance Committee was unable to arrive at a fair compensation for the post. The committee reportedly felt that some consideration should be given to the fact that Gray, although being named deputy superintendent, will, in effect be temporarily carrying out the duties of a superintendent.

Gray is one of three general highway foremen who were previously named to run the department since Camallonga's resignation during investigation into the conduct of his department.

Gray has been serving in a leadership capacity along with Paul Mercier and Abraham Ellsworth.

Meanwhile, the board of directors of the Ulster County Chapter, Civil Service Employees Association, announced today its plans to formally demand that county highway workers Joseph Scully and Thomas Leahy be immediately reinstated to their county positions with full reimbursement of back pay. Thomas Phillips, chapter president said "it was the bravery of these men, speaking out against the near tyrannical administration of Camallonga, which led most directly to various criminal charges and probes. It is a travesty of justice, that the two men should still be out of work when Camallonga, by his very resignation, demonstrated CSEA's contention that he was an unfit administrator."

to, could result in dismissal.

Still another proposal up for consideration would authorize the creation of non-contributing dental insurance plan for Ulster County employees. It is being advanced by Minority Leader Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City), Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 6) and Brian R. White (D-Dist. 8).

Long-planned-for rural transportation for Ulster County is imminent. The legislature will act on a resolution, which would grant the Office for the Aging authority to acquire a 1963 Chevrolet, 51-passenger bus in good condition for $1,700. A driver would be hired through manpower programs at no cost to the county and oil, gas, tires and maintenance would be reimbursed on a 90 to 10 basis under the Older Americans Act of 1965.

Other proposals to come before the board include the expenditure of $325,000 for replacement of the Phoenicia Bridge, a modernization study of the intersection of Route 300 and 208 in Shawangunk and a feasibility study of the proposed conveyance of lands in New Paltz to the Ulster County Fair Board.

Increased mileage compensation for jurors, grand jurors and court attendants is being proposed by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8). Presently they receive $8.50 a day and 12 cents a mile if they reside outside the city limits and one dollar a day for mileage if they reside in the city. Savago wants to compensate them at $8.50 a day plus 15 cents for mileage of $1.50 a day for those residing in the city.

Second Cementon Application

CEMENTON

The second major application necessary for the ultimate approval of a 1,200-megawatt nuclear-fueled power plant in Cementon will be filed this week by the Power Authority of the State of New York (PASNY).

The 15-volume application for a certificate of environmental compatibility and public need will be submitted to the New York State Board of Electric Generation Siting and the Environment. The board is the state agency empowered to approve the location of thermal generating units.

An application for a construction permit has already been filed with the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC).

The application to the siting board—which contains 6,000 pages and weighs more than 50 pounds—includes voluminous data on environmental, engineering, economic and safety aspects of the proposed Cementon project. All of the data is intended to support PASNY's contention that the planned nuclear generating facility would have no adverse impacts on the terrestrial, aquatic or meteorological ecology of the Cementon area.

The proposed location is a 282-acre site in the southeast corner of the Town of Catskill in Greene County. The site borders the Hudson River and Route 9W, and is located about five miles north of Saugerties and about 15 miles north of Kingston.

According to PASNY, the environmental studies covered all the possible effects the plant would have at the proposed Cementon site. The application to the state siting board notes that construction and operation of the plant would comply with all state and federal regulations regarding environmental quality and protection.

A six-month waiting period will go into effect when the siting board formally receives the application. Public hearings will be held on that application when the waiting period ends; hearings will probably begin around March, 1976.

According to PASNY's tentative timetable, construction would begin pending approval of the application in 1977, with final completion in 1983.

Since PASNY first announced in May that the Cementon site had been chosen as its primary location for an atomic facility, the authority has detailed numerous economic benefits that would accrue to the area during the six-year construction period. PASNY has stated that more than 2,000 workers would be employed during the peak construction period, generating a six-year construction payroll of some $168 million.

But opponents of the proposed atomic plant have pointed out that the facility would not be added to the tax rolls of the town or county and that, as a result, economic benefits created by the plant would be minimal once heavy construction is completed. Under its charter, PASNY is not required to pay local property taxes on its facilities.

Neither, however, will the proposed plant require public financing or state credit. Bonds will be sold to private investors to finance construction; the bonds will be repaid, and the project operated, through revenues obtained by the sale of the electricity that the proposed plant will generate.

The power to be generated by the proposed Cementon plant will be distributed primarily to the New York City metropolitan area, for use by the city's mass transit and subway systems.

A Summer of Weather Extremes

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

It's official!—1975 was a lousy summer.

If it wasn't blazing hot it was darn near freezing cold—six record breaking lows were recorded.

And the rain! It rained almost every weekend—10 out of 13 to be exact.

What passed for summer was fittingly "topped off" by a cold, dank Labor Day weekend.

And if summer weren't bad enough, there are indications that winter could be worse. On Aug. 26, Norwood "Doe" Locke, resident weatherman at the city engineer's office recorded this prophesy: "Fire flies flying low . . . cold winter."

Ominous words indeed but Locke stands by them. "I've had a pretty good record for predicting, to tell you the truth," he says with no false modesty.

Locke agrees that this summer was something of a bummer.

"Summer" in these parts unofficially means that period of about 13 weeks between Memorial Day and Labor Day. Summer-1975, following a nippy spring, got off to an extremely cool start. In fact, on June 10 a record low of 42 degrees was recorded at the city engineer's office, breaking the previous record of 43 set in 1949.

On June 12 the first of the heavy summer rains came as 1.85 inches fell on the city causing widespread flooding.

Total rainfall for June of this year was 4.9 inches, just above the 4.666 inch average for the past 10 years. Temperatures varied from the low of 42 to a record-tying high of 98 degrees on June 24. That record was established in 1957.

While there was only about half as much rain in June as compared to July, there was only one totally clear weekend that month, the weekend of June 21-22.

July opened chilly with another record of 48 degrees established in the first part of the month breaking the old record of 50 degrees set way back in 1940.

The eight-day period between July 13 and July 20 saw the heaviest rains of the summer with 7.05 inches falling. On July 13 a total of 2.65 inches fell rising to an even 3 inches on July 20.

Overall rainfall for the month was 7.92 inches so with the exception of those three days, July was a relatively dry month. Average for July for the past 10 years has been 3.45 inches. There was at least a trace of rain every weekend in July; what the weather people refer to as "partly cloudy."

It was also cold, though not quite as cold as June. Three records were set. The temperature fell to 54 degrees on July 26, breaking the 1974 record of 55. The following day the temperature dropped to 51 degrees, breaking the 1962 record of 54 degrees.

August produced the hottest weather of the summer, opening with a record 104 degrees, breaking the 103 set in 1955. Aug. 2 was nearly as hot, topping the 96 degree record set in 1943.

And Aug. 3 was another one for the books, coming in at 101, one degree above the even hundred established in 1936.

It cooled off in about a week, however with another record low of 52 being recorded on the 9th, breaking the old low of 55 set in 1942.

Aug. 21 saw a record low of 48 degrees breaking the previous mark of 49 degrees set in 1969. Weekends weren't bad in August; two of the five weekends were without trace of rain.

Overall rainfall in August was 3.87 inches, slightly above the 3.70 ten-year average.

City Bus Service Examined by KUBA

KINGSTON

The Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association met in regular session Wednesday morning to review plans for a survey of bus service in their area.

Glenn Stampfle, president of the merchants' association, said the businessmen want to coordinate their efforts with the city when three new mini-buses arrive in late November.

The businessmen want to work out schedules so that their employees can take buses to work rather than driving cars, thus alleviating the chronic parking problem uptown.

Stampfle said the businessmen are interested in not only the employees of their 84 members, but in other employees as well, such as the Ulster County office building where upwards of 500 people work.

The businessmen have been in contact with City Planner Robert E. Pritchard on the matter.

Also discussed was an upcoming meeting with Mayor Francis R. Koenig and other city officials concerning the extension of the Pike Plan concept throughout the Stockade District. The Stockade district encompasses eight blocks while the Pike Plan covers only parts of Wall Street and North Front. The businessmen are interested in extending at least the overall look of the Pike Plan—street lights, etc.

As far as Pike Plan street signs, suggested by Koenig a few months ago, Stampfle reports that the state will not allow other than standard signs. "Much to our dismay, they won't go for it," Stampfle said. He said the association, through the city, would seek exemptions.

Business is good uptown, reports Stampfle. "I think we've bottomed out of this recession thing although it would be difficult to tell from the unemployment," he said.

"It does seem like the back to school business was brisk all through the month of August. It was a very welcome turnaround for us."

The meeting with city officials, which will also review plans for additional parking off North Front Street, is set for next Wednesday.

The Montessori Method

Seemingly quite unconcerned that a new school year is about to begin, youngsters concentrate on a game of checkers at the Children's House, a bilingual Montessori school that will open Sept. 15 in Saugerties. Located at the Atonement Lutheran Church, the non-denominational school still has openings for children between the ages of 2½ and 6 years. The proven Montessori method encourages children to function independently in their own environment.

Welfare Burden May Go to County

KINGSTON

Feeling that the county is in a better position financially than its towns to assume the mounting costs of welfare, Legislator Charles Scala (R-Dist. 1), is proposing that a study be conducted as to the feasibility of the county taking that responsibility.

Ulster is the only county in the state in which towns still have the responsibility for their own welfare costs. Prior attempts to transfer that responsibility to the county have failed because many supervisors wanted to retain "home rule."

Scala contends that directives of the federal government and judicial decisions "have made a mockery of home rule."

Several other reform measures are being proposed for consideration at the next meeting of the county board Thursday, Sept. 11 at 4 and 8 p.m. in the County Office Building.

James Gilpatric (D-City) proposes the establishment of an Ulster County Code of Business Ethics. He points to considerable publicity in recent months concerning the conduct of the office of the highway superintendent, saying it is the desire of the legislature that all supervisory and management employees discharge their duties in a manner which is above criticism.

Although the legislature passed a local law in 1970 establishing a code, Gilpatric feels "no appropriate document exists which defines the code of ethics expected" by the county board. He proposes a new code, which if not adhered to, could result in dismissal.

Still another proposal up for consideration would authorize the creation of non-contributing dental insurance plan for Ulster County employees. It is being advanced by Minority Leader Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City), Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 6) and Brian R. White (D-Dist. 8).

Coach House to Kick Off 26th Season

Coach House Players will kick off its 26th season Monday, Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. with a dinner meeting prepared by Coach House Business Manager Kay Finn. This meeting will be for members only. Those interested in attending should contact Kit Scherer of Kingston.

A potpourri of dramatic readings, quotes and sketches entitled "Women in Perspective" will take place after the dinner. Evelyn Navy of Kingston, an account executive for WKNY, has compiled the material for the program, which she describes as a "conglomeration of views, expressions, and sentiment of women, past and present, young and old, ranging from such literary greats as Dorothy Parker and Margaret Mead to Edith Bunker, televisions original dingbat."

Taking part in the program will be three of the area's foremost dramatic talents: Elizabeth Askue, Betty Madonna and Linda Quartell.

Betty Madonna, principal of the Meagher School, Kingston, has been active in Coach House for the past eight years. She has had leading roles in such plays as "Don't Drink the Water," "Picnic," "The Glass Menagerie," and most recently the role of Inez in Sartre's "No Exit." She resides in Kingston with her husband Ed and their three children.

Linda Quartell, a graduate of the American Musical and Dramatic Academy, is well known locally for her many leading roles in Coach House productions over the past seven years. They include "Mame," "Lovers and Other Strangers," "Finian's Rainbow," "Fiddler on the Roof," and most recently as Ella in "Bells Are Ringing." She has a varied theatrical background which includes summer stock performances to being a featured singer at several Catskill resorts. She resides in Kingston with her husband George and their two sons.

Elizabeth Askue was born in Canada, and is a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. She appeared in many theatrical productions organized during the war to entertain the British troops in Canada, and was hostess of her own radio program over CBS, Toronto. Her greatest interest has been with children's theatre, for which she has been both writer and director of the Ulster Youth Theatre. Well known for her numerous leading roles in Coach House productions, she has most recently starred in "Anastasia" and "Suddenly, Last Summer." She resides in Hurley with her husband, Dr. William Askue, and their four children.

The dinner meeting is planned at Coach House, 12 Augusta Street, Kingston.

Behind the Scenes Activities at Maverick

Last Sunday, when the final notes vanished, the applause ended, and those who filled the Maverick Concert Hall departed, the 60th consecutive season of chamber music ended.

It was a banner year, according to Hollister "Jack" Sturges, chairman of Maverick Concerts 60th Anniversary committee. Attendance set new highs despite the rain and thunder that threatened three performances. More children attended the two morning performances for the young than ever before.

Reviewing various items of interest which occurred during the season, Sturges said that following Heywood Hale Broun's coverage of the Brass Quintet a few Saturdays ago on the CBS evening news, messages poured in from around the country.

"A man that has a taste of music, painting, or architecture, is like one that has another sense, when compared with such as have no relish of those arts."

When Tucker Jolly, tuba for the Brass Quintet, asked how many youngsters had seen a circus, just about every hand shot up. For the one shy seven-year-old who had never seen one, Tucker Jolly said: "O.K., sonny. Just for you, we are going to play the march that John Philip Sousa, the march king, wrote for the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus." Before a half-dozen notes had been heard, youngsters and parents alike were on their feet, stomping in tune to this spirited march "until the overhead rafters shook."

A couple nights before Mildred Dilling's noted harp concert in mid-August, the Hollister Sturges family received a telephone call from her. The Sturges' four-year-old grandson answered. According to Hollister Sturges, much confusion followed as she asked for "Hollister" which is also the grandson's name. In despair, Miss Dilling asked what number she had reached. Young Hollister said: "Just a minute," whereupon he took a flashlight to search for the house number. In Woodstock's Byrdcliffe section, few houses are so identified, including the Sturges' residence. After several expensive minutes, young "Holly" returned to the telephone and informed Miss Dilling: "We don't have one!"

Jessica Rosenbloom, nine-year-old daughter of Cornelia and Edgar, is one of Maverick's youngest supporters. A special program was printed for Miss Dilling's young people's concert with the entertainment trio garbed in early century costumes on the cover, executed by Fletcher Martin from his home in Mexico. A butterfly in assorted hues with her crayons to give a special touch to every program that day. Her mother was responsible for the lay-out and design of the Maverick commemorative book. Chairman Sturges says: "Like mother, like daughter!"

The late Hervey White, who started Maverick Concerts 60 years ago, would be proud to know that his efforts have endured so long, longer than any such musical series in the country.

Ever since Paula Robison and her husband, Scott Nickrenz, appeared at Maverick Concerts, they have won new fans as well as old ones who return to hear them make lovely music together. Last Sunday was no exception, as they played the flute and viola, respectively, and were joined by Arnold Steinhardt and his violin. Yet for Mrs. Robison, it was a very special performance. Perhaps her two greatest fans were her mother and dad, Naomi and David Robison. They have been avid Maverick boosters. Mrs. Robison took charge of season tickets and sold more this year than ever before. Her husband, formerly of Hollywood and now of Byrdcliffe where he continues to write television series, edited the Maverick booklet which, with illustrations, gave a history of the past six decades. Music director, Leo Bernache, has arranged for the fine talent heard during the past six years. He is executive director of the National Folk Festival Association in Washington. He and his wife Nathalie journey from their home in Vienna, Va. as often as possible to listen to the fruits of his labors.

A man that has a taste of music, painting, or architecture, is like one that has another sense, when compared with such as have no relish of those arts." Joseph Addison, the English writer, penned those words for The Spectator on June 16, 1711. Maverick Concerts continues to make its cultural contribution to Woodstock and other nearby communities whose residents have supported them over the years.

The late Hervey White, who started Maverick Concerts 60 years ago, would be proud to know that his efforts have endured so long, longer than any such musical series in the country.

As for the Bicentennial Year of 1976, Maverick Concert members are just starting to work on that one.

LWV to Present Program At Welcome Wagon Meeting

The Greater Kingston Welcome Wagon Club will hold its first regular monthly meeting Tuesday, Sept. 9, at 8 p.m. at the Bonanza Office of the Heritage Savings Bank on Route 9W across from Caldor. Newcomers are reminded that the entrance to the meeting room is at the rear of the bank. All members are invited and a special invitation is extended to all newcomers to the area. The League of Women Voters will present a program followed by a question and answer session.

The Greater Kingston Welcome Wagon Club helps newcomers become an intricate part of community both socially and civically. Monthly meetings allow club members to hear interesting speakers and to mingle with other new residents. Club members also serve the community through volunteer work at various charitable organizations. Annual donations are made to charitable organizations by the club through fund raising projects. Last year $2,730 was donated to the Ulster County Association for Retarded Children.

Information on upcoming special interest groups which include bridge, crafts, book discussion, munchin' mates, and a sewing group is available from Mrs. Richard Drews or Mrs. Richard McCutcheon, both of Hurley.

A Wine and Cheese Tasting

Party is planned for Saturday, Sept. 13 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tweeddale, Hurley. Reservations must be made by Sept. 9. Those who plan to attend are asked to make reservations with Mrs. Richard Drews.

The September Board Meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 16 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. John Mungo, Saugerties. Paid members are welcome to attend. Contact Mrs. Mungo if you wish to attend.

Anyone knowing of new residents in the area is requested to contact Mrs. Charles Selzo or the answering service.

35th Anniversary

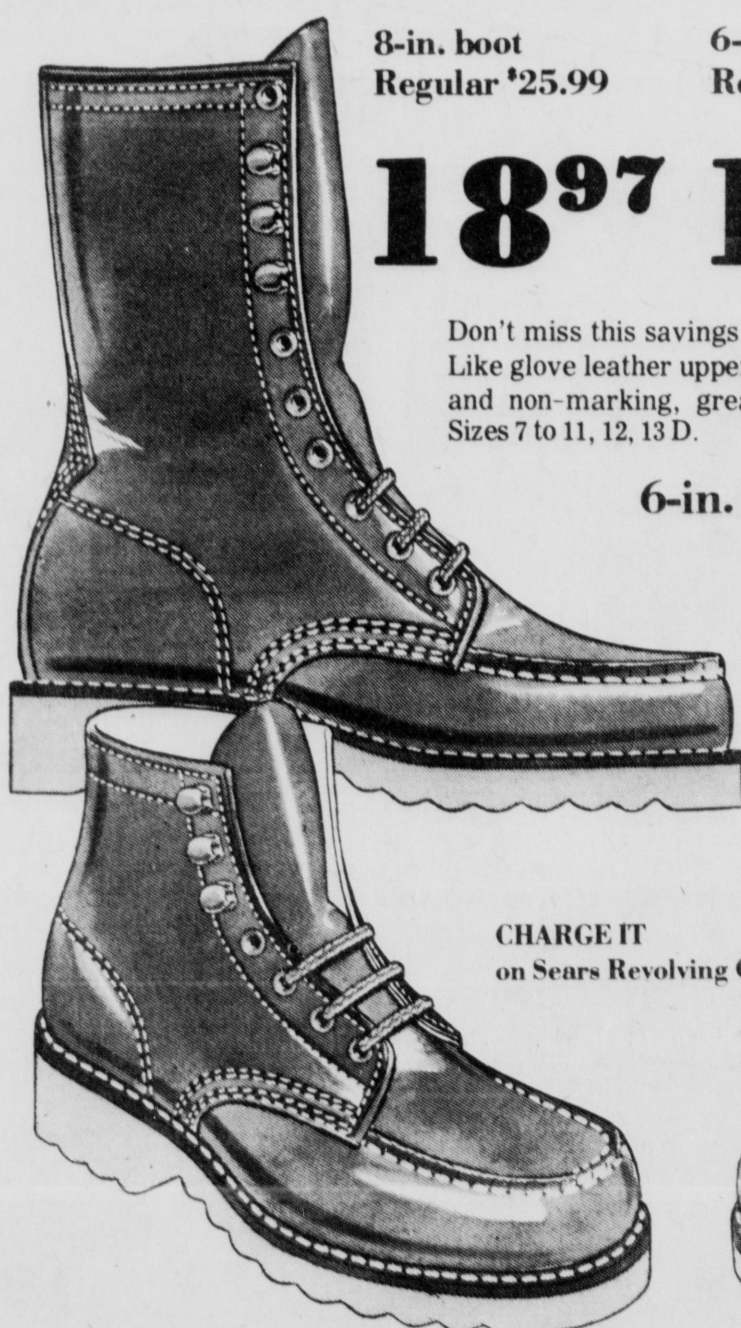

A surprise 35th wedding anniversary party was given recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stickle of 61 Merritt Avenue, Kingston, at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Burton, of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Stickle were married August 16, 1940 in Kingston. Mr. Stickle is a well-known building and excavating contractor in this area.

Many relatives and friends attended the celebration.

Mrs. Anne Breuer of Kingston (R), president of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah, meets with some of the leaders who were prominent during the sessions of the 61st annual Hadassah convention held in San Francisco, Calif. On left is Dr. Uri Khassis, director-designate of Mt. Scopus Hospital; Mrs. Rose Matzkin, national Hadassah president and Mrs. Rose Dorfman, national chairman of fund-raising.

Local Hadassah President Reports On Recent 61st Annual Convention

Mrs. Anne Breuer, president of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, has reported on some of the developments taking place during the recent 61st annual convention of Hadassah held at the San Francisco Hilton in San Francisco, Calif.

She notes that Hadassah's medical organization budget for next year will probably be increased one-third when its second hospital in Jerusalem reopens at the end of 1975, according to a convention report by Rose E. Matzkin, the national president.

"It will be up to the 2,500 delegates of the 335,000 member voluntary organization, which has 1,500 chapters and groups in every state of the union, including Puerto Rico, to approve the final budget and to set quotas and goals to support Hadassah's programs in the U.S. and its network of health education and rehabilitation services in Israel.

"Hadassah maintains the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center at Ein Karem in West Jerusalem which is the largest medical complex for healing, teaching and research in the Middle East. In October, it will reopen the Hadassah University Hospital on Mt. Scopus in East Jerusalem which is part of the medical center. The Mt. Scopus Hospital was the original medical center opened in 1939 and evacuated in 1948 when Israel lost access to it. It was returned to Hadassah in 1967 when Jerusalem was reunited."

Mrs. Breuer, in her report, said that the Ein Karem complex will continue as the major center of teaching and research and the Mt. Scopus Hospital with 300 beds will be geared as the regional hospital serving about 75,000 persons of East Jerusalem and the West Bank.

Hadassah is a major employer in Jerusalem. In the last three years, it has absorbed in some cases, retrained close to 200 immigrant medical personnel of which more than a half are from the USSR and Romania. The second largest group is from the English-speaking countries — U.S., Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. Others are from India and Pakistan, Scandinavia, France and South America.

Theme Selected for Garden Club Meeting

The general theme, "Mum's the Word," has been announced by Mrs. Everett F. Bennet, director of Third District Federated Gardens Clubs of New York State, Inc. for the fall district meeting to be held Thursday, Sept. 25, at the Ramada Inn, Western Avenue, Albany. Registration begins at 9 a.m., call-to-order at 10 a.m.

Reports and awards, including the Year Book Awards, will be presented at the morning session. One minute announcements of garden club events will be permitted if notice is sent to Mrs. Bennet by September 15th, giving club name, name of announcer, event, place and date.

Hostesses for the day will be garden clubs of Albany, Schoharie/Greene and Rensselaer Counties under the direction of Mrs. William Pentak. Mrs. D.K. Ormsbee and Mrs. Merwin Smith, county chairmen. Clubs of Schenectady County will be in charge of ways and means under the direction of Mrs. Richard Lawton, county chairman.

There will be special exhibits on Conservation, anti-Litter, Juniors and Garden Therapy. Winning Year Books will be on view and special flower arrangements by members of the hostess clubs will be on display.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. Reservations are required and must be made before September 18th with Mrs. William Pentak, Maple Avenue Extension, Altamont, New York 12009. Members not wishing to attend the luncheon may attend the afternoon session by paying a registration fee.

"Mums Can Be Beautiful" is the title chosen by Mrs. Richard Corbisiero Jr. of Douglaston, N.Y., for the program she will present at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Corbisiero is a National Council Flower Show judge; New York State Horticulture judge; master judge of the National Chrysanthemum Society; horticulture chairman for Federated Garden Clubs of New York State; member of the Board of Directors of Queens Botanical Garden; past president of the Long Island Chrysanthemum Society. She grows more than 100 varieties of chrysanthemums each year for exhibit at local and national chrysanthemum shows.

Old Kingston Academy Class Reunion

Plans for the annual Kingston Academy reunion are being completed.

The reunion is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 5 at 1:15 p.m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

Hosting the event will be the Class of 1915. All friends of the Academy are urged to join in the celebration. One need not be a graduate of the old school in order to attend, the committee reports.

The committee on arrangements feels that newcomers to the community might be interested in learning about the

Kmiecik-Schwenk Wedding

Susan Marie Kmiecik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kmiecik of Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert William Schwenk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwenk of Kingston, at Fair Street Reformed Church. The Rev. Randall Bosch officiated at the ceremony.

Wedding selections were provided by Karen L. Corkery of New Jersey.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a satin polyester gown styled with a V-neckline, long sleeves, and an Empire waistline. The gown featured ruffles at the neckline, sleeves, hemline and attached train. The bride's gown was styled and made by Ginny Peller of Kingston.

Mrs. Kathy Keller of Kingston was matron of honor for her sister. Attendants were Ginny Peller, Mary Ann Derrenbacher, and Lynn Powers, all of Kingston.

Jeff Schwenk of Kingston, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushering were Jerry Keller of Kingston; Ted Barten of Medford, Mass.; and Randy Wells of Ulster Park.

A reception was given at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, earned her AAS degree in Accounting at Ulster County Community College. Her husband, also an alumnus of KHS, received his AAS degree from UCCC, and is employed as a radio communications technician by New York State Department of Environmental Conservation.

The couple will reside in Kingston after a wedding trip to Aruba.

Woodard-Noble Nuptials

Deborah Jane Woodard of Hurley and Richard Joseph Noble of N. Syracuse were united in marriage at Hurley Reformed Church. The Rev. Charles Stickley officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodard of 4 Orchard Street, Hurley. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Noble of Oakridge Road, Auburn.

Organist Mrs. Frank Welch accompanied Richard Baker who sang wedding selections. The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a beau de soie gown in the empire styling with chiffon sleeves and a detachable train.

Darlene van Laer, cousin the bride, High Falls, was maid of honor. Attendants were Miss Susan Thornton, cousin of the bride, Windsor, Conn.; Miss Nancy Gogg, 3 Orchard Street, Hurley; Miss Harriet Mann, Wantagh, L.I.; Mrs. Donald Reeve, Syracuse.

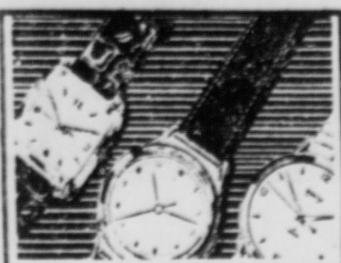

William Noble II, brother of the bridegroom, East Granby, Conn., was best man. Ushers were James Woodard, brother of the bride; Mark Lomolino, Largo, Fla.; Tom Blair and Mike McGee, both of Auburn. A reception was given at Holiday Inn, Kingston.

The bride earned her BA degree in Elementary Education from State University College at Cortland. She was employed as sixth grade teacher in Port Jervis City Schools.

Her husband was awarded his BA degree in Biology at SUC at Cortland and is employed as an IBM salesman for Syracuse Office Products Division.

The couple will reside at Cobblestone Square Apartments, Clay, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: My brother's wife recently died leaving him with a 13-year-old daughter.

When the child feels unhappy, afraid or lonely, or when there are houseguests and a shortage of beds, her father allows her to sleep with him. (This occurs every two weeks.)

He says he doesn't want her to grow up remembering that her father made her stay alone at night when she was blue or upset. He worries about her emotional security as she has demonstrated a fear of losing her parents since she was adopted as an infant.

The recent death of her mother was very traumatic for her. Could you or your readers offer some experiences that would enlighten this father or me?

SIS

DEAR SIS: Under NO circumstances should a 13-year-old girl be sleeping with her father. In fact, my psychiatric consultants state that beyond the age of four, no child should sleep with a parent of the opposite sex. If your brother tries to justify his actions, he desperately needs professional help.

No doubt he is also lonely, but substituting his daughter for his wife (which he could unconsciously be doing) is sick. DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of a 1-year-old daughter. We both work and do not plan on having any more children.

How do you feel about raising an only child? I am tired of hearing that it's "unfair" to our daughter to be raised as an only child.

We feel that as long as she gets plenty of love and discipline she will be all right. Have you any statistics to support or oppose raising an only child?

TULSA PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Don't look for statistics. You have the right idea.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I had dinner at an expensive restaurant and the total bill (for eight people) came to $60.

When the waiter handed me the bill he whispered, "A 10 per cent tip is not included in the bill."

Is it proper for a waiter to try to hustle a tip this way? He caught me off guard.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: It was not only "improper" but a good way for the waiter to lose his job. You would have done him a favor had you warned him of the consequences.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

The Chase Advantage

The Chase Advantage is our commitment to services that make banking easier, simpler, and more pleasant for you.

We do it with services once unheard of in banking. And people who fit those services to your needs, not the bank's.

The Chase Loan Advantage

When you're in a hurry, you can arrange for a loan at Chase in less than a lunch hour. If you're not in a rush, we still try to clear your loan in less than 24 hours.

And you can get that loan for something you want as easily as for something you need.

In addition, you have 2 easy ways to borrow at Chase. For small loans, use your Chase BankAmericard®. And for larger amounts, there's our regular personal loan.

Our point of view is simple. If you meet the requirements, you should get the loan.

The Chase Checking Advantage

To start, Chase will show you how to spend less for checking. By comparing the number of checks you write and your monthly balance, we'll help you choose the type of account that's best for you.

Then we make checking easier for you with things like personalized deposit slips, and banking by mail.

The Chase Savings Advantage

Our greatest advantage for your savings is that we're a checking bank. You earn high interest at the same handy bank you use to cash a check, pay your Holiday Club, or arrange for a loan. So you save time as well as money.

And you have a choice of several different ways to save. Each has an advantage, and they all pay the highest interest the law allows us to pay. One's bound to be just right for you.

In fact, we even have an Automatic Savings Plan for people who have trouble saving regularly.

Even More Chase Advantages

So see your friends at Chase. They've tried to think of just about every way possible to make banking easy, to make banking simple, to give you every advantage. All so you can give yourself the Chase Advantage.

Chase Manhattan Bank of the Mid-Hudson, N.A. Branches in Arthursburg, Monroe, Poughkeepsie (at South Hills Mall and Main Mall), Bardonia, Napanoch, Saugerties (at Main Street and Simmons Plaza) and Brewster (at Southeast Plaza).

Youth Theater Finds New Home

Joy Bell, chairman of the Ulster Youth Theater, has announced that while the youth theater will be moving to Coach House by the end of September, registration for the fall term will still take place at 296 Fair Street, known by the children as the Green Dragon. Coach House Players responded graciously and promptly, Mrs. Bell said, to an emergency plea from the Ulster Youth Theater Board, who, on August 26th, received notice that it must vacate 296 Fair Street. Further information may be obtained by contacting either Mrs. Bell or Mrs. Elizabeth Askue, artistic directors, who will be stressing smaller classes with more individual instruction. "On behalf of the Ulster Youth Theater, I am pleased that things have worked so well with Coach House. We look forward to a deepening relationship with them and a more natural home to produce the showcase of the performing arts with children," Mrs. Bell commented.

The Chase Advantage

The Chase Advantage is our commitment to services that make banking easier, simpler, and more pleasant for you.

We do it with services once unheard of in banking. And people who fit those services to your needs, not the bank's.

The Chase Loan Advantage

When you're in a hurry, you can arrange for a loan at Chase in less than a lunch hour. If you're not in a rush, we still try to clear your loan in less than 24 hours.

And you can get that loan for something you want as easily as for something you need.

In addition, you have 2 easy ways to borrow at Chase. For small loans, use your Chase BankAmericard®. And for larger amounts, there's our regular personal loan.

Our point of view is simple. If you meet the requirements, you should get the loan.

The Chase Checking Advantage

To start, Chase will show you how to spend less for checking. By comparing the number of checks you write and your monthly balance, we'll help you choose the type of account that's best for you.

Then we make checking easier for you with things like personalized deposit slips, and banking by mail.

The Chase Savings Advantage

Our greatest advantage for your savings is that we're a checking bank. You earn high interest at the same handy bank you use to cash a check, pay your Holiday Club, or arrange for a loan. So you save time as well as money.

And you have a choice of several different ways to save. Each has an advantage, and they all pay the highest interest the law allows us to pay. One's bound to be just right for you.

In fact, we even have an Automatic Savings Plan for people who have trouble saving regularly.

Even More Chase Advantages

So see your friends at Chase. They've tried to think of just about every way possible to make banking easy, to make banking simple, to give you every advantage. All so you can give yourself the Chase Advantage.

Forced At Second

Mets' catcher Jerry Grote (15) is forced out at second base in 6th inning Wednesday night at Shea Stadium. Pirate second baseman Rennie Stennett had just made the putout after a throw from pitcher Jerry Reuss who had fielded Wayne Garrett's grounder. Bucs won, 3-1 to drop Mets six games behind in NL East. (UPI)

By BILL MADDEN UPI Sports Writer

Six years after being exiled in disgrace from the "Big Apple," Bill Robinson is still taking it out on the New Yorkers.

Robinson, sent packing by the New York Yankees in 1969 after three much-maligned seasons of failing to justify the trade of Clete Boyer, made one of his infrequent return visits to New York with the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night. And once again he proved to be a big disappointment to the New York faithful.

With the score tied 1-1, Robinson stroked his sixth home run of the season leading off the seventh inning to put the Pirates ahead for good in a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets. The loss, charged to Jon Matlack, dealt the Mets' National League East title hopes a severe blow as they lost two out of three in the crucial series to the frontrunning Pirates to fall six games back.

"I'm a little older and a little wiser than when I was a Yankee," said Robinson, who lifted his average to .285. In three years with the Yankees after arriving from Atlanta for the popular, slick-fielding Boyer, Robinson batted .196, .240 and .171.

Still, Robinson finds himself a reserve with the Pirates and only played Wednesday night because of an injury to regular leftfielder Richie Zisk.

"Every time I come to the ballpark, I expect to play," Robinson said. "If I'm not in the lineup, I'm frustrated for 15 minutes or so until I take batting practice. Then I believe in the Willie Davis theory: 'It's not my life, it's not my wife, so why worry about it?'" Jerry Reuss (15-10) went the distance for the Pirates, scattering eight hits. Consecutive doubles by Robinson and Dave Parker gave the Pirates an insurance run in the ninth. The Mets' lone run came in the first on consecutive doubles by Felix Millan and rookie Mike Vail.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Diego outlasted Atlanta 10-9, Philadelphia trimmed Montreal 6-3, Chicago drubbed St. Louis 11-6, San Francisco toppled Houston 9-4 and Cincinnati battered Los Angeles 13-2.

Reds 13, Dodgers 2

Tony Perez singled home two runs and Pete Rose and Joe Morgan doubled home one each during a 10-run fourth inning Cincinnati uprising that saw 16 Reds go to the plate against Los Angeles. The victory, which went to Gary Nolan (13-8), cut the Reds' NL West clinching number to five.

Cubs 13, Cardinals 8

Pete LaCock belted a grand slam homer off Bob Gibson with two out in the seventh inning as spoiler Chicago sent St. Louis five games back of the Pirates in the NL East. Gibson (3-10) came on after the Cardinals had tied the score 6-6 with five runs in the sixth.

Phillies 6, Expos 3

Garry Maddox drove home three runs with a triple and home run and rookie Tom Underwood ran his record to 13-10 as Philadelphia snapped a four-game loss streak with a victory over Montreal. Maddox tripled home Dave Cash and Underwood to tie the score 2-2 in the third and later put the Phils ahead 4-3 in the sixth with his sixth home run.

Padres 10, Braves 9

Dave Roberts singled home pinch-runner Don Hahn with the winning run during a five-run San Diego uprising in the ninth inning. Only 1,119 fans showed up—the Braves' lowest total ever in Atlanta. Hector Torres had a two-run homer and Willie McCovey delivered in run-scoring double that tied the game in the ninth.

Giants 9, Astros 4

Steve Ontiveros banged out four hits and Gary Matthews and Von Joshua had three apiece in a 17-hit San Francisco outburst that helped rookie Pete Falcone beat Houston for his 11th victory. Matthews and Willie Montanez knocked in two runs apiece as the Giants collected 10 hits and eight runs in the first three innings.

Wise and Cooper No Longer Anonymous

Before the American League East title is decided, the shadows of anonymity may no longer hang over the heads of Rick Wise and Cecil Cooper.

But the road to recognition hasn't been easy.

For Wise, who pitched only 49 innings last year, the season started in the bullpen, far removed from the spotlight enjoyed by Luis Tiant and Bill Lee, who pitched Boston to an early lead in the AL East.

For Cooper, the season started on the bench as super rookies Fred Lynn and Jim Rice stole not only the headlines but his job as well.

Today, Wise is back in the starting rotation, winning a career high 18 games and emerging as Boston's "September Stopper," while Cooper is batting .337 with 13 homers and more than his share of game-winning hits.

"I won't say it's the most satisfying victory I've ever had but it was right up there," Wise said after hurling 10 innings in Boston's 3-2 victory over Baltimore Wednesday night which increased the Red Sox' lead to seven games over the Orioles.

Wise had averaged over 250 innings pitched for five straight seasons in the National League prior to his trade to Boston last year. He was hampered by shoulder problems last season and a freak accident in which a door was closed on his pitching hand.

"All last season it was a constant effort on my part to rebuild myself," Wise said. "The mental anguish was the worst thing but at no time did I ever lose confidence in myself. Tonight has to be one of the most gratifying wins of my career."

Nobody could have blamed Cooper for running to Manager Darrell Johnson earlier in the season to complain about his bench status. After all, he'd hit .275 in his first season as a regular last year and he figured to improve.

But Johnson told him to be patient, that Lynn and Rice were ripping up the league and that he'd eventually get a chance to be a regular again. That chance came when Tony Conigliaro failed in his comeback attempt, Dwight Evans slumped and Juan Beniquez was injured.

Cooper was then inserted into the lineup as the regular DH and he responded by hitting .355 in that role. His 13th homer in the top of the 10th provided Boston with its winning margin and denied Jim Palmer his 21st victory.

"It wasn't a bad pitch on his part," Cooper said. "I didn't think Palmer was tired but I only saw him throw one or two breaking balls in the second inning when he walked four of us. It was just that I caught it good, that's all."

Elsewhere in the AL, New York blanked Detroit 8-0, Cleveland ripped Milwaukee 11-3, Texas shaded California 5-4 and Kansas City edged Chicago 5-4 in 10 innings.

Yankees 8, Tigers 0

Catfish Hunter pitched a fivehitter to pick up his 19th victory and Thurman Munson hit his 11th homer and drove in four runs to lead New York over Detroit. Hunter, who has lost 13 games, struck out four and didn't walk a batter in his 26th complete game—most for a Yankee since Carl Mays 55 years ago.

Indians 11, Brewers 3

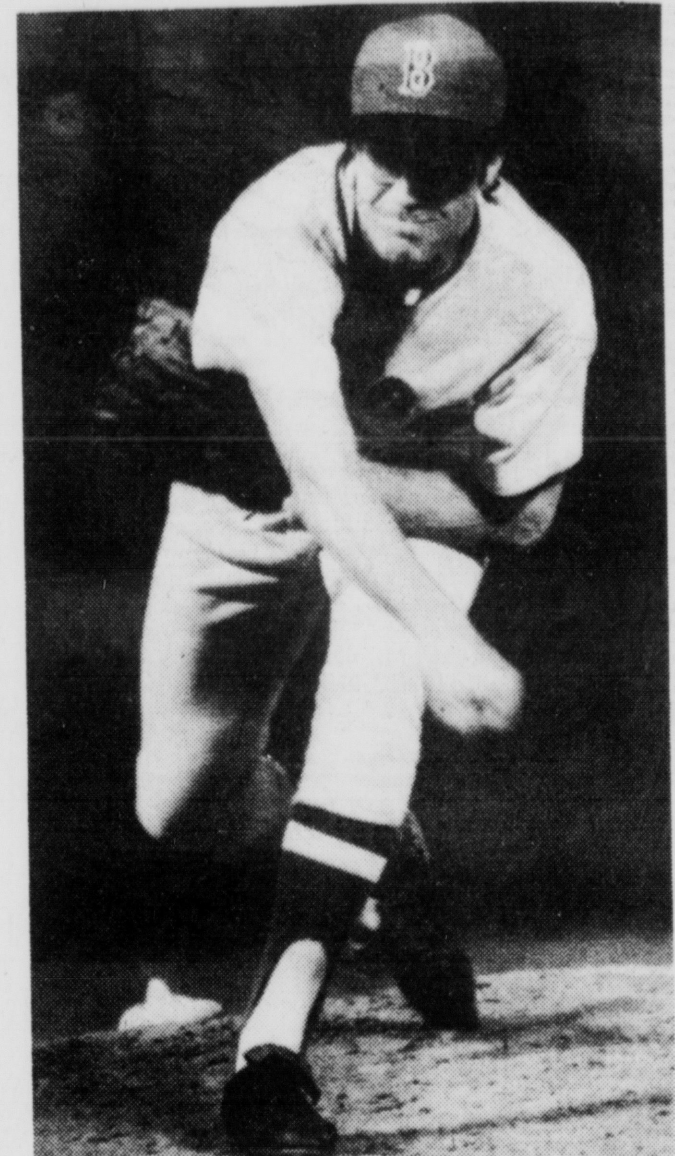

Buddy Bell hit a homer, scored two runs and drove in three more to pace a 19-hit attack that carried Cleveland over Milwaukee. Fritz Peterson, with seventh inning relief from Bob Reynolds, won his seventh straight game to raise his record to 11-7.

Rangers 5, Angels 4

Tom Grieve drove in three runs with a homer and two singles to lead Texas past California. Reliever Clyde Wright pitched 4 1-3 innings to gain his fourth victory. The Angels also learned that ace Nolan Ryan will be out for the rest of the year with bone chips in his pitching elbow.

Royals 5, White Sox 4

Al Cowens tripled home two runs with two out in the 10th inning to give Kansas City and rookie right-hander Dennis Leonard its victory over Chicago. The win, Leonard's 12th against five losses, ran his winning streak to seven games.

On Target

Bosox pitcher Rick Wise is the picture of concentration while pitching his way to a 10th inning, 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night. Wise notched his 18th win of the year, a career high, for the front-running Red Sox. (UPI)

There's No Stopping Connors But Dibbs Faces Trouble

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Jimmy Connors is expected to go jauntily on his way into the U.S. Open Tennis Championship semifinal today by brushing aside the challenge of Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison, but the only other American left among the original field of 128, Eddie Dibbs, is due to depart against Sweden's Bjorn Borg.

Connors, the defending champion who claims he's not the defending champion because of the change of surface from grass to clay, has had only the slightest difficulty in his first four matches. He has dropped only one set in his run, 5-7 in the third to American clay court ace Harold Solomon in the round of 16.

Dibbs, the Brooklyn-born Lebanese now living in North Miami Beach, Fla., came this far by knocking out two seeds on a surface he, like Solomon, prefers. The 24-year-old Dibbs put out 16th-seed Cliff Richey in the second round, then stunned casual tennis viewers by routing Wimbledon champion and fourth-seed Arthur Ashe in straight sets.

But against Borg, the 19-year-old who has twice won the French title on the red clay of Roland Garros Stadium in Paris, Dibbs may well prove to be over his head. Borg, fifth seeded, polished off Aussie great Rod Laver, the ninth seed, to gain his place in the quarters.

The 26-year-old Pattison slipped through this far in a series of matches highlighted only by his upset win over 12th-seed John Alexander of Australia and has not shown at any time the type of game that can ruffle Connors.

lie Nastase, Connors' pal, seeks the semis against Spain's Manuel Orantes. Nastase was fined $8,000 Wednesday for his actions in the Canadian Open final, when he was accused of not trying in his 7-6, 6-1, 6-0 loss to Orantes.

The $8,000 represented the amount of money due the runner-up in the Toronto tournament and the Men's International Professional Council wants the money returned to the Canadian Federation to be used in junior development programs. Nastase, of course, will appeal the fine, highest in tennis history.

In the other men's quarter, second-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina opposes Chile's Jaime Fillol.

The completion of the women's quarters Wednesday set up semifinal pairings of Chris Evert-Martina Navratilova and Evonne Goolagong Cawley-Virginia Wade.

Miss Evert, an easy 6-2, 6-1 winner over Australia's Kerry Melville Reid, admitted she was annoyed by the decision of Billie Jean King not to defend her Forest Hills title.

"If Billie Jean could play at Wimbledon," she said, "she should have played here. I think she should have defended her title. I've played her on grass, her surface, and I would have liked to have played her on clay, which is my surface."

Miss Evert's entry into the semis marked the fifth straight year she has come this far. Mrs. King defeated her in 1971, Miss Evert lost to Miss Melville in 1972, to Margaret Court in 1973, and to Miss Goolagong a year ago.

Miss Navratilova and Mrs. Cawley are the two players given the best, if outside, chance to stop Miss Evert's drive to the title she says she wants most to win. That drive is awesomely boosted by the 20-year-old machine-like girl's clay record. She has now won 82 straight matches on clay surface.

Her last loss on her favorite surface was to Mrs. Cawley, who, a year ago, ended a 56-straight tournament victory string hung up by Miss Evert in her march through the Italian, French and Wimbledon events.

Mrs. Cawley, playing erratically, could be considered lucky Wednesday in getting by Kazuko Sawamatsu. The Japanese girl, suffering from a recurrence of an old back injury, nevertheless had set point against the Australian in the first set and led 5-2 in the second. But Mrs. Cawley squeezed through to a 7-6, 7-5 win.

Miss Sawamatsu required medical attention after the match but was pronounced fit when the back pains subsided.

Miss Wade's win over Germany's Katja Ebbinghaus was a routine 6-3, 6-0, affair while 18-year-old Miss Navratilova stood off a late rally to beat 33-year-old Mrs. Court, the fifth seed, 6-2, 6-4, in the feature match of the final night program of the $309,000 tournament.

WFL Blamed In Winds Mess

CHICAGO (UPI) — The legal counsel for the Chicago Winds said Wednesday it was the league—not the Winds' owners—which failed to meet its financial commitments and forced the club's downfall.

The attorney, Kenneth Zak, denounced the WFL for "improperly and unfairly" damaging the reputations of the Winds owners in statements issued when the club was disenchanted Tuesday.

Judge Thwarts NCAA Rule

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Federal District Judge Sam C. Pointer Wednesday night threw out as "unfair" the NCAA's new college football rule requiring a 48-man traveling team to play a 60-man home team.

"Only the 60-man limit can be applied to both home and visiting teams," said Pointer, who added he will issue a preliminary injunction against enforcement of the new NCAA rule.

The NCAA, at a special convention last month, adopted the rule limiting the size of home teams to 60 players and the size of travelling squads to 48 players in an economy move.

The University of Alabama immediately filed suit challenging the rule.

Alabama coach Paul Bryant said he was basically pleased with Pointer's decision because "everyonewill be on even footing, will have the same number of players and I think it is great that it is all over, for everyone."

"But from my personal standpoint, here at the university, I am disappointed," he said. "We normally take 70 with us on a trip. I don't mean we always play 70, but now we can't take an injured player or one who has contributed greatly to preparation for the game."

Bryant said the ruling eliminates the school's practice of "rewarding" hard working players "for doing a good job and now we'll have to take just the people doing the playing."

Pointer said he based his decision on the NCAA's own bylaws which state "it is implicit that actions be consistent with fair competition."

Having one team with 48 players and the other with 60 "is totally inconsistent with the basic concept of fair athletic competition," the judge said.

H&M TV "C" Titlists

KINGSTON Rotron shortstop Wayne Corkery, but on the play Craig advanced to third. Wallace's second hit of the night ended the contest.

Rotron scored in the opening inning and added another in the top of the third to take a 2-0 lead. Chuck Thompson drove in both of the Rotron scores, but winning pitcher Bell blanked the losers over the final four innings to complete an eight-bitter.

H&M got right back in the game in the bottom of the third by scoring twice to tie it up. Wallace, who belted a double, and Don Cashdollar accounted for the runs.

Welcome Back Party For Illinois' Kerner

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, convicted of bribery and released in March from a federal penitentiary, was greeted and feted by throngs of well-wishers at a banquet in his honor Wednesday night.

"I would not wish on my worst enemy those things that have occurred to me in the last few years," he told the crowd. Kerner, 67, touched lightly on his 1973 conviction on charges he handed out choice racing dates and other favors in exchange for racetrack stock sold to him at bargain prices. "I don't know who wrote this," Kerner said Wednesday night, "but these words always meant a great deal to me. 'In prosperity it is very easy to find friends but in adversity it is the most difficult of all things.'"

Shooting a Suicide

LONDON (UPI)—An ot-dutty Soviet crewman committed suicide Wednesday on an Aeroflot flight carrying mostly American tourists from New York to Moscow via London, Scotland Yard announced.

After an eight-hour investigation, Scotland Yard authorities said the man had died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head.

The incident created a diplomatic conflict between the Soviets, who claimed complete jurisdiction, and the British, whose police wanted to investigate in case a hijacking or murder was involved.

Police sources said the Soviet crew and citizens among the 103 passengers refused to cooperate in the investigation and wanted to bar detectives from the Ilvshin 62 airliner.

The plane was cleared for takeoff for Moscow shortly after Scotland Yard made its suicide announcement.

'I'm the Pretty One'

"Aw shudup, he wants to take my picture," and while these seven month old baby contest winners at a fair here had few words at all to say, the action of Christopher Adam Powell almost seems to cry this comment as he pushes Jennifer Renne Thomas in the face when the photographer began to take their pictures after they were both judged winners. Import Facility Pact To be Signed

By Lynn Mulvaney

NEWBURGH

The Mid-Hudson Valley's construction industry can expect a shot with the proposed construction of a $5.8 million animal import facility at Stewart Airport.

A ceremony establishing the nation's largest animal import facility for the U. S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) at the Metropolitan Transportation Authority's (MTA) airport in Newburgh will take place Friday at 11 a.m.

The formal agreement, creating the multi-million facility on the 75-acre site, will be signed by MTA Chairman David L. Yin-unich and USDA Assistant Secretary Richard L. Feltner. APHIS Administrator F. J. Mulhern will also be present.

Federal state and local officials have been invited to participate in the ceremony.

The new facility is being built to replace the USDA's Clifton, N.J. facility which is 72 years-old and too small to handle the 7,400 animals and poultry processed annually. The new facility will have triple the capacity of the present one. The U. S. has two other animal import facilities, one in Honolulu and the other in Miami, Fla.

Authorization for the construction of the facility was first given in 1964. Having now decided on Stewart Field as the site, USDA is soliciting proposals for design and plans to put the project out for bid next spring with plans for going in operation in 1978.

Plans call for 35 buildings in a park-like setting. Twenty-five persons are to be employed full-time including veterinarians, animal health technicians, animal handlers and mechanical and cargo personnel.

The facility is reported to require $500,000 in labor and materials annually, including 600 tons of hay, 300 tons of other feed and 45,000 gallons of fuel.

Solid wastes will be incinerated and liquid wastes will be disposed of through modern sewage treatment methods.

The facility will be self-supporting with all costs borne by the importers.

All animals coming into the country have to be processed including domesticated animals such as horses, sheep and cattle, as well as pigeons, zoo birds and wild zoo animals. Presently 1,800 cattle are expected as are 800 horses, 800 zoo animals and 4,000 poultry.

Guest Speaker

Ulster County Civil Defense Director John Adsit will be the guest speaker at the Monday, Sept. 8 meeting of the Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense Auxiliary Police. The meeting, which will be held at the county annex at 300 Flatbush Avenue, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Parents Overruled To Save Tiny Twins

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — The parents of tiny premature twins object on religious grounds to a blood transfusion for their infants. A doctor says without it the babies have very little chance to live.

So a juvenile court judge moved Wednesday night to clear legal obstacles holding up the transfusions.

Whether the procedures took place or was planned early today could not be learned. Physicians and officials at Sacred Heart hospital refused to discuss the case. Hospital attendants would say only that the babies were in critical condition.

A pediatrician estimates they have only about a five percent chance of surviving without the transfusions, and about 10 percent with them.

Even with the court order, doctors and hospital authorities were reluctant to proceed. A similar case here two years ago resulted in a $6 million damage suit against all parties involved. It is still pending in the courts.

The twins were born Sunday, three months premature, to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ivey of Panama City, Fla. Both are Jehovah's Witnesses, a religion which they said prohibits blood transfusions. The father again threatened at a three-hour court hearing Wednesday night before Juvenile Court Judge Theo Bruno to file damage action against anyone involved if his babies are given blood transfusions.

Nevertheless, Bruno issued an order appointing Pensacola attorney Joel Cohen as guardian of the twins and authorizing him to sign medical release statements for their treatment. The judge rejected a request to order physicians to administer blood transfusions.

Dr. Edward Westmark, attending pediatrician in the case, first sought a court order to permit the transfusions. He withdrew it, he said, when he learned that such an order would still leave him vulnerable to a civil damage suit by the parents.

"It appears after looking at policy statements from the American Hospital Association that parents and adult patients do have a right to refuse treatment and cannot be compelled to have treatment they don't want," Westmark said.

"So on the basis of a legal suit that we would have no hope of winning, we agreed to honor the parents' request," he said.

The state Division of Family Services then filed a petition before juvenile court, seeking authority for the transfusions.

Similar action by the state agency in the other Jehovah's Witness case two years ago still resulted in a suit for damages. However, a circuit court judge ordered the state agency removed as a defendant in that still-pending case.

"My own view is this is a social issue," Dr. Westward said. "If society believes the parents should not have the right to withhold needed treatment for dependent children, the legislature should write laws mandating that."

"It may be that society does not feel that way," he added.

NOTICE OF PUBLICATION OF SUMMARY OF GRANT APPLICATION OF THE COUNTY OF ULSTER AS PRIME SPONSOR FOR FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE UNDER TITLE II OF THE COMPREHENSIVE EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ACT OF 1973

Pursuant to the requirements of the U. S. Department of Labor rules and regulations for grant applications under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, the County of Ulster has prepared the following summary of its application for publication at the time of its submission. The County of Ulster is seeking financial assistance under Title II of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 in order to be able to provide employment and job opportunities for the unemployed of the County of Ulster in the public service sector.

The County of Ulster is defined as follows: bordered on the east by the Hudson River, on the north by Greene County, on the west by Delaware and Sullivan Counties, and on the south by Orange County. Against an unanticipated carry-in of fiscal year 1975 funds in the amount of $72,347, and a fiscal year 1976 allocation of $338,576, for a total allocation of $410,923, the County of Ulster has submitted its application for financial assistance, which called for the granting of sub-grantee status to the City of Kingston, and Sullivan County, and on the south by Orange County. Against an unanticipated carry-in of fiscal year 1975 funds in the amount of $72,347, and a fiscal year 1976 allocation of $338,576, for a total allocation of $410,923, the County of Ulster has submitted its application for financial assistance, which called for the granting of sub-grantee status to the City of Kingston, and Sullivan County, and on the south by Orange County. Your Astrograph

For Friday, Sept. 5, 1975
 ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra-attentive to safety procedures while working today. Use proper tools and select them with care.
 TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't make this too much of a party day. Your self-discipline isn't all it should be. Some form of overindulgence is probable.
 GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to keep your temper when you meet with domestic frustrations today. A few heated words will make the pot boil over.

 CANCER (June 21-July 22) You've not completely forgiven someone for an indiscretion. Today you may look for an excuse to rehash the issue.
 LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be protective of possessions today. Otherwise, loss is likely through carelessness. Don't leave the car unlocked at the shopping center.
 VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Though you may be ambitious today, little of value is apt to be achieved. Your goals are far too fuzzy. Get on target.

 LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be too hasty about acting on flashes of inspiration today. Sleep on your bright ideas — they may be burnt-out bulbs.
 SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A friendship could be placed in jeopardy today over something of a material nature if you let it become an issue.
 SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Consider the interests of others today, not just your own. Being too self-centered won't do much for your image.
 CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't try to impose your ideas on unwilling ears today. You won't be appreciative of the rebuttals.
 AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Proceed carefully in business dealings today. Don't buy merchandise whose quality you may be suspicious of.
 PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're very susceptible to being pressured into agreeing to things or doing something you know you shouldn't today. Watch out.

TWO YEARS: Q. I have liked Rodger for two years. I like him so much that I don't date anybody else. He knows I like him and he really acts like he hates me. He lives near me but I only get to see him at 4-H meetings once a month.
 Should I just ignore him until he starts paying attention to me, or just give up? I really like him too much to give up — 16 in Indiana

A. I am afraid you are living in a dream world. You have this idea that if you will just hang around long enough Rodger will start loving you.

If he hasn't in two years, and has given no sign of even being interested, he is not likely to start now. You have already wasted two very important years on him. Don't waste anymore.

SHADOW: Q. I have been more or less going with Charley. I think he likes me because of my sister's reputation. He hasn't suggested we do the things she does with boys.
 I really do like Charley, and don't want to lose him, but I don't want to do what my sister does, or have people thinking I do. Please give me some advice. — 15 in Florida

A. You must live your own life. If Charley likes you and what you are, that is one thing. If he likes your sister and whatever she is, that is something else.

Have a heart-to-heart talk with him about yourself and tell him about your hopes and standards and rules. Then he will know what you have in mind. If that is not what he has in mind he can go elsewhere. Whatever he decides, you will win.

Low Card Lead Tops Honors

By Oswald & James Jacoby

What do you lead from a three-card suit? The old rule was to lead the top unless headed by an honor, in which case you would lead the lowest.

The modern expert practice is to lead the bottom from three small. Today's hand shows the advantage of the modern practice.

West opens the deuce of spades against South's three notrump. East rises with the ace and leads the suit back. Now put yourself in South's position. If his opponent makes old-fashioned leads, he knows where the queen of spades is. He rises with his king and loses the club finesse, but it doesn't cost him his contract. West's queen blocks the suit. There might even be an unexpected dividend. West might drop his queen to unblock and thereby establish South's jack.

South might make the same play against a modernist, but he would be guessing well — not playing a cinch.

Kissinger's Next Job... Convince Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford personally welcomed Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger home from the Middle East Wednesday night, and both men today quickly turned to the task of convincing Congress to send U.S. civilian technicians to monitor the interim Egyptian-Israeli peace accord.

Ford and Kissinger had an early morning meeting to brief Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress on details of the accord. Later in the day Kissinger will brief the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In an unusual tribute, Ford went to nearby Andrews Air Force Base to welcome Kissinger back from his two weeks of shuttle diplomacy which led up to the interim accord.

Before an applauding audience of officials including Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, Ford hailed the agreement as being "of great importance not only to the parties involved, but to the entire world."

"America can be very proud of its role of peacemaking," he declared.

Ford needs the consent of Congress to carry out a key provision of the accord, the sending of up to 200 American

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Both the United States and the Soviet Union have decided not to attend today's signing of the Egyptian-Israeli Sinai disengagement agreement, diplomatic sources said.

The United States announced its decision not to attend shortly after it learned the Soviet Union would boycott the ceremony.

Russia and the United States are cochairmen of the United Nations Middle East Peace Conference, which is sponsoring the signing.

Diplomatic sources said the Russians decided to stay away to protest the plan to assign up to 200 Americans to monitoring stations in the Sinai, thereby creating an American presence on the sensitive and strategic peninsula.

The American announcement meant that only generals and diplomats from Israel and Egypt, plus U.N. officials, would be present at the signing, which culminates 10 days of shuttle diplomacy by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Roy Atherton, the American assistant Secretary of State for Middle Eastern Affairs, arrived Wednesday to represent the United States at the signing. He also brought the official agreement documents to be signed.

But the U.S. mission here announced today that Atherton would not attend. It said he had handed over the documents to U.N. officials in an earlier private meeting.

The mission gave no reasons. But the sources said it had become known that Russia planned to boycott the session and it would be diplomatically rude — especially when the Ford Administration is pushing detente with Moscow — for the United States to be the only cochairman present. Atherton and a Soviet official had been scheduled to attend only as observers. They were to have had no role in the signing.

Atherton planned to meet separately today with both the Egyptian and Israeli delegations to the signing, the mission said.

(In Moscow, the official Tass news agency reported only negative comment from around the world on the signing of the Sinai agreement.) The signing of the U.S.-negotiated accord at the ornate Palais des Nations came on the eve of the Jewish New Year and the Moslem holiday of Ramadan.

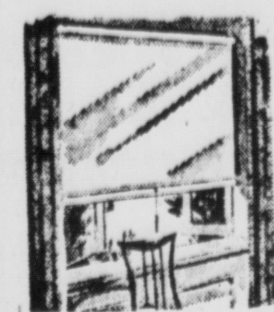

Authorities ordered tight security at the signing ceremony in the face of guerrilla threats to smash the pact. Police helicopters buzzed over the council chamber as the negotiators arrived.

Egyptian Maj. Gen. Taha el Magdoub flew in Wednesday. Israeli negotiator Mordecai Gazith was to arrive just before the start of the ceremony at the palace along Lake Geneva.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger returned to Washington Wednesday night at the end of a two-week peace mission that brought Israel and Egypt back from the brink of a fifth Middle East war.

Ford Heads for the West Coast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford flew to the West Coast today for a series of essentially political appearances and a chance to test advice from moderate Republicans to project a less conservative image.

The President deferred his two-day trip to Washington, Oregon and California until he could meet with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders on the new Israeli-Egyptian interim Sinai peace agreement.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, whom Ford greeted at Andrews Air Force Base Wednesday night on his return from the Middle East, was scheduled to brief the congressional leaders on some of the not yet disclosed details of the peace pact, including the proposal to station up to 200 American civilian technicians to monitor the boundaries.

Ford's first stop was Seattle, where he was to speak at two Republican fund-raising luncheons. He also planned to appear at a White House conference on domestic policy and economic affairs, where delegates could question him on a wide range of topics.

A dozen self-styled "moderate to progressive" Republican senators met Ford Wednesday and asked their viewpoint be given greater recognition in his presidential campaign. They also expressed their support for keeping Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller in the No. 2 spot on the GOP ticket.

Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey said of Ford, "We think he hasn't been doing his own compassionate nature justice" during his political travels around the country.

The senators said Ford listened to their frank views and accepted them in a "good spirit."

Ford's expenses on this trip will be paid by the Republican National Committee, according to White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

After the Seattle conference, Ford flies to Portland, Ore., where he will address a GOP fund-raising dinner and will attend a youth pageant before flying to Sacramento, Calif., where he will spend the night.

In California Friday, Ford will breakfast with business leaders and meet with Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. on energy problems. He also will address a joint session of the California legislature and will give an interview to a local television station.
